'STAMP OUT THE OAS' REBELS TELL FRENCH

EVIAN, France (UPI)—Algerian rebel leaders demanded, pledges from France today to launch all-out war against the outlawed European Secret Army Organization if it tries to sabotage a cease-fire agreement.

Algerian sources said this was the rebels' No. 1 demand as they met with the French here for the final phase of peace talks, designed to end seven and a half years of Algerian bloodshed.

JOBS FOR 500 CONSTRUCTION MEN

Heavy increase in pulp and paper production at the Elk Falls mill at Campbell River will result from a $35 million expansion program announced today by Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd. Preliminary phases of the project will get under way immediately and peak construction, employing 500 to 600 men, is expected to start this year. Mill will employ an additional 120 men when expansion is completed.

Pulp Mill Project Completed by '64

G. H. Galloway
... "our biggest expansion"

A $35 million expansion program for the Elk Falls pulp and paper mill at Campbell River was announced today by Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd.

Unveiling the company's plans at a Campbell River Rotary Club luncheon, CZ Canada president G. H. Galloway said:

"This is the biggest single expansion our company has undertaken. We are making an immediate start on preliminary phases of the project and completion is scheduled for 1964."

Highlights of the project:

- Facilities to produce initially 50,000 tons annually of sawdust pulp.
- Over-all increase in kraft pulp production from 320 to 1,900 tons daily.

- Tripling of bleach plant capacity from 200 to 600 tons daily.

- Installation of a 400-ton-per-day pulp dryer.
- Speedup of No. 2 newsprint machine to produce an additional 40,000 tons annually.

- A market in Holland for part of the increased pulp output.

- Annual permanent payroll to increase about $700,000 to a total of about $5.4 million. Employment to rise from 750 to 870.

Building to Start Late This Year

From 500 to 600 workers will be employed in construction of the new facilities and the peak building period is expected to start late this year. When the expansion is completed in 1964, CZ Canada will have an investment of $35 million in the Elk Falls plant which was started in late 1950 and went into production in June, 1952.

Mr. Galloway pointed out that Elk Falls would make a significant new advance in wood utilization with the first production in Canada of bleached kraft pulp from sawdust.

"Many years ago our company pioneered the use of chips from wood waste in the B.C. pulp and paper industry," he said. "The utilization of sawdust to manufacture pulp is another key development in getting maximum use of forest resources."

In addition to using sawdust from its own mills, the company plans to buy some

HUGE EAGLES ATTACK, DOWN PLANE

SION, Switzerland (UPI)—Two giant golden eagles attacked and forced a military airplane to make an emergency landing, a spokesman at nearby Chateau-neuf military airfield said today.

Lt. Walter Luetthy, pilot of a military light single-engine Swiss-made C-36, reported the big birds struck his plane Tuesday.

According to the spokesman, the eagles swooped down and crashed against the wings and body of the slow-flying C-36 which was towing a target for anti-aircraft practice.

Luetthy said the eagles barely missed his plastic bubble canopy. The pilot reported his plane was badly damaged and he made a forced landing.

Satellite Probes Mysteries of Sun

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A solar observatory satellite was fired into orbit by the United States today to learn how solar radiation influences the weather and other conditions on earth and how great a threat it is to manned space flight.

The satellite, nicknamed OSO for orbiting solar observatory, was packed with instruments to give scientists their first clear look at basic mysteries of the sun.

The 458-pound OSO payload roared away from this spaceport at 11:06 a.m. aboard a Thor-Delta rocket. All three stages ignited as planned and propelled the craft into orbit about 350 miles above the earth at 17,000 miles an hour.

Less than an hour later, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported that radio signals received by ground stations indicated the satellite was in orbit.

The new space traveller is the first of several such observatories planned to unravel puzzles Agency officials hope to launch at least one a year to chart a full 11-year sunspot cycle.

Sunspots are violent eruptions on the face of the sun ranging in area from 100 miles to more than 150,000 miles in diameter.

"It does save cars, and also increases the sales of what goes into them," he said.

U.S., CANADA Tariff Cuts Agreed

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canada-United States agreement on mutual tariff cuts covering some $128,000,000 a year in products traded between the two countries was announced in the Commons today by Finance Minister Fleming.

The tariff cuts, covering a wide range of agricultural, fisheries, wood, metal and manufactured products, will take effect at a date not yet determined.

The Canada-United States agreement is part of a series of tariff-cutting agreements signed by the United States with other major trading countries following months of bargaining at meetings of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade at Geneva.

These agreements are with the six European Common Market nations, Britain and 13 other countries. Tariff cuts under these agreements will also apply to Canada and Mr. Fleming told the House that the effect "will be to open greatly enhanced prospects for Canadian exports."

He said that under the Canada-U.S. agreement—an interim pending completion of all GATT negotiations at Geneva—the U.S. will reduce tariff rates on Canadian exports which averaged $65,000,000 annually in the three years 1958-60.

In return, Canada will reduce its tariff duties on imports from the U.S. which averaged about $63,000,000 a year in the same period.

'BIND' SOME ITEMS

Canada also has agreed to "bind" the existing tariff-free provisions for a number of farm implements and other items of production equipment—in other words an agreement not to increase those tariffs in future.

The series of agreements were reached in negotiations which began at Geneva last May.

Mr. Fleming's announcement indicated that further reductions in Canadian tariffs may be expected as a result of agreements with other countries.

'Worst Act Of Terrorism'

NELSON (CP)—Numerous industrial operations were shut down by intermittent power breaks today following the blasting of a 300-ton steel tower, severing a vital power line into the Creston Valley in the Kootenay's worst act of terrorism.

The blast, which came only a short time after six leaders of the radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect had been arrested by RCMP, brought a demand from Mayor Joe Palanga of Trail that the federal government take steps to stop the "dastardly deeds being performed against society by a minority sect."

Set off with three charges of what is believed to have been nitroglycerine, the blast was termed by police as the "worst and most costly act of terrorism yet in the Kootenays."

Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company operations at Trail, Kimberley and other places were affected, throwing

14 Freedomite Councillors Arrested

The arrests brought to 14 the total number of council members now under charges, and 89 charged or convicted in the RCMP crackdown on crime and terror in the Kootenays.

The tower supported three power cables arching two miles across Kootenay Lake to a similar tower on the west side. It crashed into the lake in a maze of tangled wires and insulators.

Mayor Palanga sent a telegram to Prime Minister Diefenbaker, saying:

"As in wartime you must consider the latest blasting of a vital power link an act of sabotage. I suggest the federal government must now take steps to eliminate the dastardly deeds being performed against society by a minority group."

"This latest blasting will directly affect our economy and also that of Canada. I urge your personal attention in this matter."

Early today power officials warned there will be a shortage of power and urged all sawmills and other industrial operation in the area to either curtail operations or shut down.

Strategy Mapped By RCMP Here

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said a top-level RCMP conference was under way at Victoria headquarters today on new action against Sons of Freedom terrorists.

"Within 48 hours I shall be able to provide additional measures should these be necessary," said Mr. Bonner.

The conference follows what he called "the outrageous incident" Tuesday night when bombs demolished a 356-foot power transmission tower at Kootenay Lake.

The matter is being regarded in the severest light," said Mr. Bonner.

Already all available police in the area are working on the investigation and the RCMP "Doukhobor squad" was on the bombing scene within minutes of the blasts.

'Other Ways' to Work Out Columbia Pact, Says A-G

By FRANK BUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Tuesday there are "other ways" of working out a Columbia River power agreement with the U.S. but B.C. wants to see the "effect" of the Canada-U.S. treaty carried out.

Gordon Dowding (NDP-CCF-Burnaby) was asking him in the legislature if B.C. intended to "go alone" in defiance of the federal government on the project.

"DISGRACEFUL"

Mr. Dowding said it would be "disgraceful" if B.C. ignored federal statutes such as the International Rivers Act.

Mr. Bonner replied it was correct that there were "other ways."

"It is not essential that it be handled by treaty," he said.

There were already a number of contracts between Canadian agencies and U.S. agencies for exchange of power.

But, he added: "No one is talking about doing anything contrary to the laws of Canada."

Such laws included the International Rivers Act which might be subject to "contest" and the Navigable Waters Act.

"It is entirely feasible, however, there are other ways, and proper ways, for agencies of

Industry Crippled For Months

KIMBERLEY, B.C. (CP)—Residents of East and West Kootenay communities today faced a grim future of power shortages as a result of the blasting of a huge power line tower on the shores of Kootenay Lake.

For them any prolonged shortage—and power officials said it might take months to restore full power—could mean frozen pipes, unheated homes, closed schools and business shutdowns.

Any shutdown of the big Sullivan lead-zinc and silver mine here, which was reduced to 60 per cent of its capacity by the power shortage, could mean a loss of close to $500,000 a month in payrolls alone.

Kimberley's Mayor Cliff Swan called an emergency meeting of his council for later today. Said the mayor:

"We feel that we are facing a hopeless proposition. We as a city are now faced with what the West Kootenay has faced for years but on a larger scale. Their protests and appeals for help from the federal and provincial governments have fallen on deaf ears... but the problem is away beyond the municipal level and we don't know how to proceed."

UNSURE OF ACTION

He added he did not know what action the council could or would take.

The operations of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company used West Kootenay Power Company power normally supplied over the bombed line. But Kimberley used East Kootenay Power Company power and its facilities can supply only a fraction of the demand of the big CM & S industrial complex.

As a result of the sudden demand from the mining company for even its essential services early today widespread overloading power failures occurred.

Power has now been restored to nearby Cranbrook but in this sprawling mining centre it was still out this morning.

V. W. Allan, chairman of the Creston village commission, said the outrage calls for the "most drastic action on the part of the government." He said the government should consider calling in the army to help the police force.

Storm Lashes U.K.

PENZANCE, Eng. (Reuters)—Families were evacuated from homes in the southwestern towns of Penzance and Newlyn early today after a record high tide, lashed by stiff winds, broke through a sea wall and flooded houses, streets and basements.

Shots Exchanged

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters)—Katangan and United Nations troops exchanged shots today near the installations here of the Belgian Union Miniere mining company but there were no casualties, a UN spokesman said.

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA - 1862

Word was received of the death in Boston, Mass., of Charles Otis Kimball, a British Columbia merchant well known and highly respected both here and in the sister colony. A partner in Cook and Kimball, Lytton, he was visiting his parents when stricken with diphtheria at the age of 34.

The sloop Lady Franklin (see March 6) was sold for $215, and the steamer Cortes has been taken off the Victoria-San Francisco service and sold to an English company for use on the Yangtze River, China.

The theatrical company, which returned only a few days ago after a successful winter season in New Westminster, has decided once more to move on. Theatricals announced for last night did not take place at the Lyceum because of an argument between the proprietor of the house and the actors. The argument was believed to be of a pecuniary nature.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

A Happy Birthday today to Ned DeBeck, clerk of the Legislature since January 5, 1949.

Now 79, Ned was saying Tuesday night how he happened to stay on the west coast for good.

"It was back in 1907. My dad sent me to Upper Canada College, a rich and fancy school in Toronto. I suppose I would have stayed in the east but for one thing—dad went broke."

So back to Vancouver came Ned—a five-day train trip on which the passengers cooked their own meals—and he's been in B.C. since.

Facing an altogether new life is Mrs. Leslie Cox, 2332 Brethour Avenue, Sidney, who is scheduled to arrive home tonight from Vancouver, where she underwent surgery five weeks ago for an open heart condition.

Her husband reported it will be several months before her heart assumes a normal beat after years of struggling with a handicap.

"Eight hours after the operation she looked like a different person," he said, but it's the little things that make a difference. For instance, she can pick something from the floor and straighten up without getting dizzy, and can fix her own hair. Before the operation she couldn't hold her arms up long enough."

He and his wife, a Dutch girl, were married in Holland in 1945 while he was serving with the army there.

Herbert Seibner, the artist, wrote his exams recently for Canadian citizenship and, to the question: "Which party governs B.C.?" answered "The CCF." The examiner wrote in the margin: "Mr. Bennett would be amazed."

Don Carley, who has been temporarily bedded by flu, veteran Oak Bay golfer Phil Taylor has been doing his own cooking. Lost four pounds the first week.

Phone Don Carley at Victoria Riding Academy these days and you wonder what's happening at the other end of the line.

The raipy response, Don will tell you, is because he is a little horse—ha ha.

But despite a bad throat, the academy boss is busy planning a spectacular event for Easter Monday (April 23) which he thinks will draw a big crowd to the Cedar Hill Cross Road riding grounds.

It will be a steeplechase (Victoria style) with 21 obstacles over a mile and one-quarter course.

Spectator areas will be provided at all of the obstacles which will include a water course. It will be a timed, two-member team event starting in the show ring at the riding academy, out through surrounding fields and bush land and back to the stadium.

Visiting Victoria March 24 will be Miss Ceylon Tea (Mrs. Nandini Silva of Toronto).

Part of a promotion for March 26-31 Tea Week in Canada the young woman is married to a student at the University of Toronto who won a Commonwealth scholarship from his native country.

Married a year before she came to Canada, Nandini will show off many of her 30 sari's while in Victoria. Each one is made of six yards of material, and the test of a good one is whether or not it can be pulled through a wedding ring.

According to Nandini—symbol of Tea Week—Canadians consume over 10 billion cups of tea a year and are the fourth tea drinking country in the world. Ceylon and India supply more than 90 per cent of the world market, hence a Ceylonese as Miss Tea Week.

Cigarettes Major Cause Of Cancer, Reports Probe

LONDON (Reuters)—Smoking is a major cause of lung cancer, a Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons committee concluded in a long-awaited report issued here today.

The nine-member committee, set up in April, 1959, was headed by college president Sir Robert Platt.

"Smoking is a cause of lung cancer, though there are other causes, such as air pollution and substances met in a few occupations," the report said. "None of these is of general importance as smoking."

It said heavy cigarette smokers might have 30 times the death rate of non-smokers. Cigarette smokers, it said, are much more affected than pipe or cigar smokers.

"Some means of persuading cigarette smokers to stub out their cigarettes before the second half was burned would almost certainly reduce the risk," it added.

The committee was charged with inquiring into the relation between lung cancer and other ailments and smoking.

CAUSES OTHER AILMENTS

It said smoking could cause bronchitis, might help develop tuberculosis, especially in the aged, and appeared to play a role in causing arterial disorders other than high blood pressure.

Coronary heart conditions are a more frequent cause of death in smokers, mainly cigarette smokers, than non-smokers, it said.

Smoking also delayed healing of gastric and duodenal ulcers. The report painted this picture

The warning followed intermittent blackouts when attempts were made to restore power via a subsidiary line. Officials said the blackouts showed the subsidiary line will not carry the necessary load for normal operations.

The blasted power line across the lake 30 miles northeast of here, was described as the longest in the Western world. Three giant cables the tower had supported weighed 45 tons.

When the detonations came at 10:20 p.m. PST, lights snapped off along the entire Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company link, and some Cominco installations in Kimberley ground to a halt.

In darkness with other smaller centres were the villages of Riondel and Creston.

They said pig iron and chemical fertilizer plants at Kimberley had closed, with the Bluebell mine at Riondel. From 500

Further supplies from independent operators.

Entry of part of the Elk Falls pulp production into the European Common Market area will be through the recently announced Crown-Van Gelder Papierfabriek—N.V. mill in Holland.

JOINTLY-OWNED

This mill is now under construction and will be jointly owned by a Swiss subsidiary of C.Z.'s U.S. parent corporation, Crown Zellerbach A.G. and Royal Papermills Van Gelder Sons N.V. of Amsterdam.

Additional pulp, in excess of that used at Elk Falls or shipped to Holland, will be purchased by the U.S. firm for use in American mills.

Mr. Gallaway said that extension of the kraft mill will raise production of high-grade bleached pulp by 150,000 tons per year. Of this total 50,000 tons would come from sawdust and 100,000 tons from purchased wood chips as well as salvaged logs and pulp wood which will result from future development of the company's tree farm licence.

220,000 TONS

With the speedup on No. 2 paper machine, the newsprint production at Elk Falls will be raised from 180,000 to 220,000 tons a year.

Another phase of the complete utilization of waste materials will be the installation of a generating unit to produce 14,000 kilowatts of power. The generator turbine will be operated from the plant's high-pressure steam boilers, producing low-pressure steam needed for papermaking and by-product electricity in one process.

TOWER BLAST

to 1,000 men would be out of work. The huge Cominco smelter at Trail was also affected—with its supply of ore concentrates cut.

There were no injuries in Tuesday's multiple explosion.

R. M. Noakes, mate on the ferry which crosses the lake near Riondel, saw the explosion.

TOWER DISAPPEARS

Ben Draper, a resident in the area, said: "The tower has completely disappeared."

No one dared move near the tower site directly after the explosion as tangled "hot" wires were draped from the knoll where the giant support had been.

Graham Brown, a guard at the tower, had checked the location 10 minutes before it disappeared.

The severed power line, linking hydro dams in the area with Kimberley, was built in 1932 for $3,000,000. It took its first load April 8 of that year.

The sound of the explosion carried almost to Nelson. Some observers said it was nitro-glycerine, rather than dynamite, that was used to lift the steel monster from its base.

RCMP from Creston and Nelson moved into the blast area. Cars were checked, as was the Kootenay Bay ferry. A tracking dog accompanied the Nelson officers.

COLUMBIA

contract for sale of the Columbia downstream benefits, a course upon which Premier Bennett is insistent.

The premier is away from Victoria on a U.S. trip aimed at getting assurance from public power authorities that they will buy the benefits.

Mr. Dowding suggested there might be a constitutional problem if B.C. does intend "circumventing the treaty." He said any power sale might require approval from the National Energy Board.

Mr. Bonner replied:

"We like the Columbia River treaty; we want to see it implemented; we want to see its effect carried out—and that is the policy of this government."

The part of this statement that leaped out as significant to observers was "we want to see its effect carried out."

Meanwhile, B.C. Power Commission offered to provide temporary power service to the blackout area.

Chairman Dr. H. L. Keenleyside said that two mobile generators—one on a truck, the other on a railway flat car—were available in the area.

He offered them to West Kootenay Power and Light Co. and Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. Ltd., which owns the $3,000,000 transmission line between Kimberley and Creston.

Drop Bookings For U.S. Stars

MEN SCATTER AS FREIGHTER SLICES PIER

VANCOUVER (CP)—Longshoremen dived for safety Tuesday when a 15,000-ton freighter rammed bow-on into a pier, gouging a hole 30 feet deep.

Said Ken Cox who was working in the office of West Coast Pier:

"I saw the anchor drop just seconds before the freighter hit head-on into the pier. The anchor slowed it down or the ship would probably have plowed right into the office, 50 feet from the edge of the pier."

The freighter Souniotis was berthing to load lumber as it rammed the pier. It was towed out by tugs.

420 Jobs Created For Island

The $35 million expansion announcement by Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd. today brings to three the number of big new Vancouver Island pulp and paper projects announced within a little over a year.

Total new investment is $100 million.

In mid-January last year B.C. Forest Products Ltd. announced plans for a $25 million newsprint mill at Crofton to utilize pulp from its mill there. Due to start up in 1964, the mill will provide employment for an additional 150 men.

Last November MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. completed studies of a $40 million addition to its Harmac pulp mill near Nanaimo, and early this year confirmed it would go ahead. This addition will provide an estimated 150 new, permanent jobs.

With the Elk Falls expansion providing 120 new jobs, total direct added employment in the industry on Vancouver Island will increase by 420 jobs.

It is estimated that an almost equal number of jobs will be created in supplying the new mill facilities with raw materials.

Tentative bookings for a covey of U.S. stars to appear here for centennial year have been dropped.

Centennial co-ordinator Frank Preston Tuesday night said these included preliminary arrangements for shows by Xavier Cugat and Abbe Lane, Monty Montana and Thomas Hernandez.

William Dow, first of the three men to be appointed co-ordinator, initiated the negotiations for the U.S. entertainers, touching off a controversy that led to his resignation.

Mr. Preston also revealed that only one foreign warship, from New Zealand, is likely to visit the city this year despite invitations from the city to 32 countries to send fleet units here.

"We had one coming from Chile but they have since written, cancelling the visit," Mr. Preston said.

Don Carley, manager of Victoria Riding Academy, also said he has cancelled plans to bring in well-known riding acts from California for an international horse show he had hoped to sponsor with the help of the centennial committee.

Earlier, he had complained that he was not receiving any support or co-operation from centennial officials.

KILLER STORM which swept Atlantic coast Tuesday tore decking and iron railing from section of famous boardwalk at Atlantic City.

AS PARENTS WATCH IN HORROR

Swirling Waters Sweep Six Children to Death

DOVER, Del. (AP)—"Mother, they're all dead."

Mrs. Virginia Waters, 37, recalled these words from her daughter, Alisa, 9, after high waters from the flooded shoreline of the Delaware Bay swept away six other Waters' children as they tried to flee their home during a severe storm.

Five children drowned. The sixth was missing and presumed drowned. Only Mrs. Waters, her husband, John A. Waters, 41; Alisa, and a brother, John Jr., 5, and Mrs. Waters' blind mother, Mrs. Mamie Whittington, 57, survived.

"She (Alisa) didn't know us when we were in the hospital," Mrs. Waters said. She kept telling us, "Mother, they're all dead." She knew. She knew."

HOUSE NEAR RIVER

The Waters' house is 20 feet from the St. Jones River and near Delaware Bay.

Waters said the water was so high by the time the family was dressed and in their car that he saw no chance to drive away safely. He said the family sat in the car and waited for the tide to fall from Delaware Bay.

He recalled that he, his wife and John Jr. finally struggled to a nearby oyster shucking house mounted on stilts. He said he was saved by his wife when both were smashed under water by a heavy wave as they headed for the building.

"She dragged me to a spot where I could get my head above the water," said Waters. "I got her in the building, got my son out of the car and started back for the rest. I was going to start back but my wife

WINDS, TIDES BATTER EAST U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—The remnants of a killer storm, shorn of snow and freezing rain but strong battering winds and inundating tides, continued to lash the populous northeastern United States today.

The storm, the area's worst of a waning winter, piled up to three feet of snow in some inland centres and flooded vast coastal areas.

At least 11 deaths were attributed to the storm. At least that many more were missing and hundreds had been evacuated. Damage was expected to run into the millions of dollars.

Wind-pushed tides, running three to five feet above normal today, accounted for a lion's share of the deaths.

kept hollering that I wouldn't make it. I did have my doubts."

WAVES SWEEP CAR

Waters, his wife and John Jr. were stranded at the shucking house and had to watch helplessly as the car containing Mrs. Whittington and the other seven children was swept and dragged across the Waters' yard by the tide and waves.

Waters said the windows of the car were down and he saw one of the victims, Eugene, 7, crawl from the auto.

"A wave or something must have broken his hold," said Waters. "I knew he was gone but I didn't tell my wife."

Waters said he shouted to the other children to close the windows. Then he saw a rescue team waving a flag and a boat took him, his wife and John Jr. to safety.

Members of the Delaware National Guard pulled Mrs. Whittington and Alisa from the car.

Four of the children were found dead in the car. A fifth was found nearby later. They were Monroe, 12; Rosa, 6; Wayne, 5; Charles, 3; and Elizabeth, 15 months.

Eugene was missing and presumed drowned.

BACKACHE May be Warning

Backache is often caused by lazy kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest or that tired-out and heavy-headed feeling may soon follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. PUBLIC DEFENDER ASKED

Jury Fee Boost Studied by A-G

Improved jury fees and establishment of public defenders are being studied by the attorney-general's department, the House was told Thursday night.

The two issues have long been argued before the legislature and were brought to the floor this session by opposition members Alan Macfarlane (Liberal—Oak Bay) and NDP-CCF members Rae Eddie (New Westminster) and Alex MacDonald (Vancouver East).

Attorney-General Robert Bonner, answering questions during debate on the vote for administration of justice, said the question of public defenders is under consideration by his department and the B.C. Law Society.

He said lawyers are somewhat in the position of doctors who often provide an essential service without fee.

Mr. Macfarlane referred to a large number of cases taken without hope of remuneration because the accused cannot pay legal fees to defend themselves.

SOCIAL PROBLEM

This has been of concern to legal societies for a long time. "It is a social problem in which the government has a part to play," Mr. Macfarlane said.

Law societies are not satisfied with what is being done when criminal matters are involved.

A public defenders act was introduced by the Liberal party to the British Columbia legislature in 1960 and nothing was done, Mr. Macfarlane said.

DODGE DECISION

He referred to the manner in which some magistrates use a preliminary hearing to elicit the main facts in a case before committing an accused in a criminal action to a higher court, relieving themselves of the responsibility of deciding.

An accused in such a situation "goes through agony for months", besides being put to heavy expense, the lawyer pointed out.

NO CASE

"We know that time after time cases are sent to a higher court and thrown out because there is no case."

A public defender could guard against such situations, he said.

Mr. McDonald said "public legal insurance should be a part of our social security system," as apparently does Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson, who was quoted as saying the poor should not be penalized.

DOUBLED

Mr. Eddie said the present $8 a day for jury fees should be increased to at least $16, "which would be some semblance of justice," and quoted Mr. Justice Wilson as saying in a recent case the remuneration for jurors who served so long—over eight weeks—was "disgracefully inadequate."

Mr. Eddie said the fees paid now are only half what an ordinary laborer would make per day.

The last raise he said was in 1960, when the fee was $6 a day.

The present fee for a witness is $6, and Mr. Bonner said "you can make an excellent case for an increase in both."

He said a witness might regard the job as a public service, but on jurors he said, "I have in mind the desirability of improvement in fees."

"It will continue to be a matter of attention in the department—I won't forecast when an improvement will be made—but it will be."

Behind Mr. Bennett's Bluster

FOR ALL HIS BLUSTER, HIS rejected overtures to the federal government, his promises of an early solution and his threat of a provincial election, Mr. Bennett's power policy still fails to make sense.

To begin with, he assumes that he can force Ottawa to allow the alienation of the Columbia River's downstream power, which is dubious at best. He assumes that he can sell Canada's half of this power to the United States at a price of five mills, which is probable, since the United States gets the other half at little cost and will get none unless the Columbia treaty is ratified.

Assuming that Mr. Bennett can make these bargains with Ottawa and Washington, where does that leave him?

He says he will use the revenue from the sale of the downstream power to build the three Canadian dams, upstream. At Mica Creek he will then produce some two million horsepower of electricity at no cost whatever.

If Mr. Bennett would allow this electricity to reach its natural and hungry market in Vancouver his plan might be attractive—provided, of course, that the all-Canadian upstream power is as cheap as the downstream power, which the federal government does not believe. But Mr. Bennett will not allow a single kilowatt of Columbia power, upstream or downstream, into Vancouver and the surrounding metropolitan area. This market is reserved exclusively for his "Peace River power, no matter what its cost."

That is the central fallacy of Mr. Bennett's policy. It is a policy which disregards cost, convenience, and geography in order to make the Peace scheme possible. For the Peace scheme is impossible unless it monopolizes the Vancouver and surrounding market. The public interest is to be subordinated to Mr. Bennett's obsession—and this though even the Vancouver market is not sufficient of itself to absorb the huge and costly output of the Peace.

When these obvious facts are pointed out, Mr. Bennett refuses to make any coherent reply. When a series of honest questions are asked in the Legislature by Mr. Macfarlane the Premier at first agrees to answer them and then, brushing them aside, announces that he will go ahead with his program anyway, will defy the federal government if necessary and, disregarding the constitution of Canada, will conduct his own foreign relations as if the ten provinces were sovereign nations.

This, of course, is pure bluff. Mr. Bennett knows, or if not, Mr. Bonner does, that no one but the federal government can make any bargain with a foreign nation if Canada itself is a nation, but Mr. Bennett hopes the bluff will work in Ottawa. He will sign a contract with local American power authorities for the downstream power, if he can, and present it as a fait accompli to the Canadian government which, he expects, will yield under the threat of a provincial election, though it has nothing to do with the case.

Even if that strategy works because Mr. Diefenbaker is afraid of Mr. Bennett in a federal election, the problem of the upstream Columbia power remains. Where is it to be sold when Mr. Bennett will not allow it into its natural market? He says it can be sold to a national power grid which, so far, is only an electoral gleam in Mr. Diefenbaker's eye. Even if such a grid is built eventually—though Mr. Lee Briggs of the National Energy Board says it is uneconomic and impractical—there is no assurance that it will buy the Columbia power.

Mr. Bennett knows that, too, but obviously he has other plans which it is not expedient to mention at the moment. His real intention undoubtedly is to sell the upstream as well as the downstream power to the United States—in fact, to sell all the power he can develop on all British Columbia rivers, so long as Vancouver is reserved for the Peace.

Here, however, Mr. Bennett encounters a difficulty which he never mentions at all: Will the United States buy anything but the dirt-cheap downstream power if the federal government finally permits its export?

There is a vast difference, from the United States' point of view, between the downstream Columbia and other British Columbia power. It is the difference between about three mills, the average price for all the downstream power, and five mills for other power. And five mills is an exceedingly high price in American terms.

In the first place, such power, delivered at the international boundary, must be wheeled at great expense to distant markets like San Francisco. Secondly, the Pacific states are accustomed to a much lower cost than five mills. Thirdly, they will soon be producing nuclear power at not much more than five mills close to its consuming market. Fourth—a fact generally overlooked—the United States can still develop a large new volume of hydro power on its own tributaries of the Columbia if the treaty finally collapses.

These are formidable questions, none answered by Mr. Bennett, all drowned in his threats and diversions. None will be settled by his latest quarrel with his brief "pen pal" and "old friend," Mr. Diefenbaker. None will be settled by a provincial election.

The central fact remains, for all Mr. Bennett's attempt to confuse and blur it: He is committing the people of British Columbia to a debt not much short of a billion dollars without knowing where the power of the Peace or the upstream Columbia can be sold or at what price. Considering our population and resources, no such gamble has ever been undertaken by any province in Canadian history.

EASIER TO LEARN THAN THINK

The Educationists Scored a Near Miss

By B. A. TOBIN

TEACHING authorities and experts have been meeting in Montreal to discuss education and one of the things that seemed to demand consideration was the question: "What are the aims of education?" It proved to be a tough one. As one report put it, among the two thousand delegates at the conference, there appeared to be two thousand different answers. But it seems to be true that the aims of education should determine what education is and how it will be conducted. And if you can't agree on what education is, well, it makes the whole discussion rather difficult.

Some thought education should be teaching the young to think. Others thought emphasis should be placed on teaching them facts. Others felt a combination of these two was the right thing. Others believed there should be more stress on moral issues, but still others shied away from this.

In One Ear . . .

Teachers seemed more concerned with installing facts in our heads back in the "good old days." They were particularly successful. They drilled us in arithmetical tables, in the parts of the verb "to be," they made us remember song-sentence sentences which described various grammatical practices, they got us to chant dates and names and a few intangible facts. They were dedicated people who more than earned their pay.

To some extent they succeeded in their aim, and many of us can still remember some of the nuggets of information so absorbed. For most of us, indeed, these facts were the only facts we really learned in all our lives, the only things we can be sure of nowadays when all the rules seem to be changing and the facts turn out not to be facts at all but surmises by somebody who didn't start with enough facts.

Of course in a situation like this, with the realities becoming blurred around the edges, and the positives taking on negative tinges when viewed from over here, and the hard facts softening and the known data turning out to be somewhat unknown—in a situation like this, being able to "think" is a great thing, or would be. It would enable you to make it all up as you went along.

Over the Top

A few of our teachers tried to teach us to think. It was an uphill struggle. To think meant to launch out on your own in the universe, rejecting many things that had been accepted heretofore, making up theories if you needed them and then proving them, trying to recognize what things really were instead of what you had been told they were, distrusting teachers and everybody who tried to hand you a firm, fully-packed, genuine fact without any proof of its truth.

Well, you can imagine what would happen to any kid who acted like that. He'd be in after school almost every day. And he'd have no more chance of passing an exam than of flying.

The pupils, some of them, might originally have been designed for thinking, but the system wasn't. And I don't see how it could be.

It would mean almost individual tutoring for everybody, years of putting up with errors and mistakes while the thinking apparatus was trained, and a tremendous outlay of time, money and effort for what would often seem to be a lost cause.

The Great Unknown

For many it would be a lost cause. They would end up with neither facts nor thinking ability and either have to start all over again or flounder through-out life without an education of any kind.

For others, of course, the system would be just what was required. They would grow and flourish under it and end up as intellectual giants, as plants which have been given the proper nourishment. The facts they weren't taught they would eventually find out for themselves, and many more besides, and the world—if there were enough thinkers—would move forward at a pace that would make even today's progress look like a crawl.

Of course, even under the old system, an odd one here and there was able to hit his stride. Some individuals could become educated even if isolated on a desert island. We saw them now and then in a class, ranking first all the time, gobbling up books and ideas like sixty. They were THINKING, right there amongst us, and we didn't even recognize it.

I wonder whatever became of them. Maybe they died of loneliness.

WASHINGTON:

Decision In Moscow

By JOSEPH ALSOP

AMONG the official demonologists, there is a widespread feeling that the Soviet government has reached some sort of crossroads, and is about to make some sort of basic choice of very great potential importance. The feeling might better be described as a hunch. But because of this feeling, there is intense interest in the plenary meeting of the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist Party, which is now in session.

Alsop

In the policy-making areas that affect the rest of the world, the Central Committee not only must deal with the ulcerated problem of China. Final decisions will also have to be taken, or at least formally registered, about the never-ending, always bitterly dangerous Berlin crisis.

A moment of grave choice is now thought to be at hand, precisely because of the accumulated evidence that an argument has been going on inside the Kremlin, as yet without any clear result, about Berlin and several other vital subjects. In the case of Berlin, the evidence is particularly clear.

Numerous Notes

The conversations between U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, the numerous recent Soviet notes and memoranda on the subject of Berlin; even the Soviet actions in Berlin and on the air routes—all have had the same peculiar characteristic. All have seemed, in fact, to imply an unresolved dispute.

Gromyko's tone, for instance, has generally been pleasant and even friendly, at least by Gromyko standards; but he has not receded an inch from the extreme Soviet position in any matter of substance. The same has been true of the Berlin documents emanating from the Kremlin.

This odd contradiction between the substance and the atmospherics has in turn been underlined by the peculiar character of recent Soviet actions. Most striking in this respect was the recent attempt to bring pressure on the air routes to Berlin. This was a far more dramatic, far more dangerous, but also far more confidence-inspiring episode than the world was told at the time.

Simulated Attack

At the climax of the attempt, what can only be called a simulated attack was made by Soviet fighters on an American military airplane en route to Berlin. The fighters repeatedly buzzed the big transport, on one occasion missing a collision by hardly more than six feet—which must have put a heavy call on the American pilot's nerves.

The buzzings were accompanied by all the familiar signals—wing-wagglings, droppings of the fighters' landing gear, and the like—which usually convey the aerial ultimatum: "Land immediately or I shall open fire."

But for once in a way, an emergency had been fully foreseen by the unfortunate Western contingency-planners who have been laboring for years over the Berlin dossier.

On the basis of the planners' work, President Kennedy had issued the order, as long ago as last August, that all such land-or-fire signals must be ignored at all costs. The American pilot executed his orders. The attacking fighters sheared off without opening fire.

Thus the attempt to bring pressure on the Berlin air routes ended, after having been carried up to the very knife edge of the worst kind of trouble. "So far, but not a micro-millimeter further," was clearly the order of the day.

Cash Advance

Since then, the odious East German boss, Walter Ulbricht, has journeyed to Moscow; has been given a large cash advance which looks suspiciously like a consolation prize; but has not apparently obtained what he wants most, which is a promise of the city of West Berlin.

Orders have also been given to keep the U.S. commandant in Berlin out of the Soviet sector of the city, which may mean anything or nothing.

In sum, the Soviets have plainly not answered the question which must be growing more and more pressing for them—the question whether to let the Berlin crisis subside at last or to push it to some kind of ultimate, desperately risky climax. Like the question about the Sino-Soviet relationship, the Berlin question obviously has the utmost meaning for the whole world.

50 Years in the Forest's Life

COMPARED TO THE AGE OF timber in Cathedral Grove, 50 years is a short time.

It is long enough, though, to have seen British Columbia emerge from a system of "mining" our forest wealth into one of "farming" it.

As eminent men in forestry assembled here last week to mark the 50th anniversary of the B.C. Forest Service, they could look back with satisfaction on this major development in making our trees a lasting resource.

If there has been one major accomplishment in the field, it has been the province's successful campaign to place British Columbia forests on a sustained yield basis—a policy recommended by the late Chief Justice Gordon Sloan, an operation made effective by former Chief Forester C. D. Orchard and maintained by his successors.

Why Have Parking Permits?

THE CITY TRAFFIC COMMITTEE has declined to accept Alderman Geoffrey Edgelow's suggestion that all free parking permits be rescinded, but the proposal makes sense.

While the tax-paying citizens of Victoria feed their pennies and nickels into the meters, some people are excused, Why?

The argument may be raised that certain individuals need to park at particular metered spots in the process of doing city business of one kind or another. Of course they do.

So do businessmen, shoppers and the like.

The simple fact is that parking permits are small perquisites given to a privileged few. Why not pay city employees or council members sufficient to meet the charges others have to meet? Ducking nickel fees, or avoiding over-parking fines is surely a demeaning activity for those who carry on the city's business in different fields.

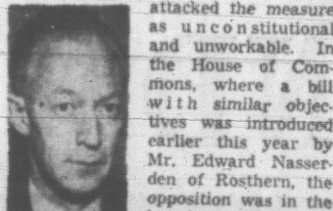

Mr. Edgelow has a point—one which doubtless appeals to all drivers who pay for the privilege of stopping at curbs where the meters operate.

FROM OTTAWA

Neither a Borrower nor a Bumpkin Be

By MAURICE WESTERN

THE opposition to Senator Croll's interest disclosure bill came out into the open this week. Senator Hayden attacked the measure as unconstitutional and unworkable. In the House of Commons, where a bill with similar objectives was introduced earlier this year by Mr. Edward Nasserden of Rosthern, the opposition was in the happier position of being able to knife it by stealth. One of Mr. Nasserden's Conservative colleagues, Mr. Terry Nugent (Edmonton-Strathcona), said it was very commendable but managed to introduce enough doubts into his speech to prolong discussion until 6 o'clock when the bill died.

This sort of obstruction is not possible in the Senate, a point usually overlooked by those whose denigrate the upper chamber.

Senator Croll's bill is an essentially simple measure. It would make it mandatory for a firm selling on credit to provide the purchaser with a statement showing the total of the unpaid balance outstanding, the total amount of the finance charges to be borne by the purchaser and the percentage relationship in terms of simple annual interest that the finance charges bear to the unpaid balance.

It should be observed that there is no element of criminality in the bill. The only sanction is that a credit financier, failing to comply with the law, would be unable to retain or recover finance charges on the unpaid balance.

Essential Idea

The essential idea of the bill is, in Senator Croll's words, that credit should be made a commodity. At present a person interested in purchasing, let us say, a television set shops around and finds identical or similar articles selling for various prices in different stores. It is, however, difficult for him to make meaningful comparison because of the variety of credit arrangements.

Here all is mystery and mumbo-jumbo. No law at present requires the dealer to reveal the effective rate of interest although such information would certainly be of assistance to the customer in the exercise of his right of choice.

It may be significant that Senator Hayden, whose speech is spread over nearly six pages of the Senate Hansard, devoted only a few brief paragraphs to the constitutional issue. In his view the matter is one falling within provincial jurisdiction under the "property and civil rights" clause.

While there is no doubt that Parliament may legislate in matters of interest, finance charges extend to other items and Senator Croll is seeking, in Senator Hayden's view, to venture on to forbidden ground.

In making this case, Senator Hayden conveniently overlooks the opinions of two eminent constitutional lawyers.

When Parliament in 1939 enacted the Small Loans Act, the same fears were aroused by the expression "cost of the loan." About 18 years afterwards Mr. F. P. Varcoe, then deputy minister of justice, was questioned about the matter in hearings of the banking and commerce committee of the House of Commons. Then too a disclosure bill was under consideration. Mr. Varcoe stated:

"In 1939 the device was resorted to of fixing the over-all cost of a loan. The idea behind that was, first of all, that everything that is paid to the lender by the borrower, apart of course from the principal, is interest. What the lender does with that and how he disposes of it does not make the sum which he receives any the less interest."

Investor's Return

"Now interest is, as you know, the return made to the lender for accepting the risk of the loan and for compensating him for the use of the money lent. That was the first basis we had in mind when we prepared this legislation in 1939—everything that the borrower pays is interest no matter how the lender may break it down and suggest that it is for this and that, chattel mortgage charges and so on."

"In case that did not cover the whole field of these charges, we said,

Gigantic Issues

Yet the demonologists suspect that these decisions about gigantic world issues may well be made, at least in part, as by-products of a deeper decision about the general direction of Soviet society. To be specific, the stated topic of the central committee meeting is agricultural policy; and this intimately involves the whole state-investment program, conspicuously including military investment.

A serious change in Soviet investment priorities could affect everything else, from China to Berlin, from the lot of the Soviet collective farmers to the degree of freedom allowed to Soviet writers.

It is a strange moment, when the world must wait, with real anxiety, for the outcome of a remote, only partly understood argument—whose protagonists are not even identifiable. But wait we must, with the hope that the argument does not produce a sharp turn for the worse in the course of events.

(c) 1962 New York Herald Tribune Inc.

Then, of Course, There's Everest

EVERY few years I drive over some excellent highways on Vancouver Island to visit beauty spots, the parks and recreation department—and the parks branch before it has developed for public enjoyment.

When I come back I sing the praises of the parks, the facilities and the imagination shown by my friends of the department in making such spots so accessible.

Because I appreciate the way highways have been pushed into such places, I ought to be beating the drums for more public use of private roads to allow more of our townsfolk and visitors in to see the wilderness. I'm not thumping very hard for several reasons.

For one, I appreciate the argument of the people who have built the roads. They constructed them mainly to haul timber from their holdings. They recognize the risks of fire and theft when relatively uncontrolled crowds are permitted into such holdings.

But the chief reason I'm restrained in my enthusiasm is entirely selfish. Nothing spoils things like people.

"Let me say, and say it to your shame," goes the old rhyme, "that all was beauty here until you came." It's a noble sentiment more honored in the breach, etc. When I was a kid, a very few of us had a number of secret spots in the Highland district. We didn't own the property. We weren't even paying taxes then. But just the same, in our hearts, these places were ours by right of knowledge.

An older friend of mine, who was a boy at heart, owned an old T-Model Ford run about at the time. The two of us would head for the Highlands on weekends to fish. You needed a T-Model for the road in those days. Anything lower-slung hung up on the crown between the fenders.

We couldn't drive in to our special locations. We'd park and then hike. To reach one we scrambled down a gravel bank to the edge of a stream, and crossed it on a moss-covered log above a tangle of old timber that made a formidable barricade. Then we circled over a deer trail and came out on a rock that sloped back to the creek. Down the slope we inched our ways, broke through a screen of bush, and were at our pot-hole.

It wasn't large—only about 20 feet in diameter—and it disappeared into a swale of water willow. There we'd drop our lines and bobbers for brook trout—not big but sporty. And whenever we grew tired of fishing, or the fish grew tired of biting, we'd peel off and swim in water that was clear and cold above the brown rocks of the bottom.

At the top of the pond the stream broke over larger boulders. At the bottom, it tumbled over a small ledge in a miniature cataract.

On other occasions we'd drive a little farther down the road, climb a snake fence, sneak through a barbed-wire one, and beat our way through the bush to the bank where a swamp ran deep. Across from us rose a small island and about the island in spring flew redwing blackbirds, giving the wilderness the sweetest bell tones in nature.

No one had official access to these places over the routes my friend and I took. Part of the enjoyment of them, I guess, was "injuring" our way in.

Memory gives them a flavor sweet as boyhood, a freshness sharp as the cold water into which we plunged.

If they had been accessible, all sorts of people would have gone there. The whole place would have been spotted.

Maybe a few of our natural beauty spots should be given the same type of secrecy that lack of access afforded my fishing holes. Perhaps they should be reserved for those people who are prepared to worm their ways through close growth to get in, who will trek over trails laid down only by deer and who will revel in the labor of walking and overcoming obstacles.

It's a pretty selfish idea, I'll admit. But it has some merit. Surely there's some point in preserving for the "loners" and the hardy a special treat denied to other people who want to get there comfortably over a well-constructed road.

Exemptions for 1961 are the same as 1960.

$250 for each wholly dependent child qualified for family allowance.

$500 for each wholly dependent child not so qualified. These children can earn up to $950 without affecting your claim for personal exemptions.

The exemption for other dependents—parents, grandparents, in-laws, brothers and sisters—is the amount you spent in 1961 in support of each dependent up to the maximum allowable of $250 if the dependent is qualified for family allowance or $500 if the dependent is not qualified.

"No, Mum—a television set is not classified as a dependent."

Many Victorians contribute money for the support of friends who do not come within the dependent classifications. I am sorry to say that this generous support is not recognized by the Crown as a deduction from one's taxable income.

If your wife's income is not over $250 you claim $1,000 married exemption. If your wife's income is over $250 but less than $1,250, deduct wife's income from $1,250 and claim the difference as your married exemption.

If you were born in 1896 or earlier, claim an additional exemption of $500.

HOME GARDEN

By JACK BEASTALL

A Perfume to Repay Your Effort

For everything that takes the joy out of life the gardener can find something to put it right again.

The thing that has given me the greatest pleasure while the garden has been buried in snow has been to open the door of the plastic house and be greeted with the wonderful perfume of the freesias.

This corn-like root with grassy foliage has a flower stem resembling a piece of wire curved almost to a right angle near the top, with funnel-shaped blossoms standing upright in a row along the nearly horizontal portion.

The colors, all pastels, cannot fail to please, and the only fault to record is the lax habit of flower stems and foliage—too weak to stand up without support.

Freesias have been a standard winter forcing crop in greenhouses for generations, enjoying the coolest corner of a not-too-warm house after growth is well started in the fall. Being natives of South Africa they need indoor culture here to flower at this time.

BETTER FROM SEED

While corns are always available, the English growers for the flower trade have found that better and more sure crops are possible from seed, the corns being discarded as soon as the flowers have been cut. We have also found imported corns occasionally reluctant to give a profusion of flowers.

It takes a year, more or less, from seed to flowering. Ours were sown Feb. 6, 1961, with the first flowers open by mid-February this year.

The seed can be sown in a large clay pot containing a fairly loose soil mixture and good drainage, with an edging of fine twiggy sticks added as soon as the foliage shows the first signs of sprawling.

Since a deep soil and no transplanting are mandatory, an eight-inch clay pot makes an ideal home for a dozen seedlings. Fresh seed germinates almost 100 per cent so that over-sowing is not necessary.

As the flower stems appear in December a low temperature is more important than heat, as low as 35 degrees F. at night and not over 50 degrees during the day.

This, with a little feeding to stiffen the wobbly stems, will give size and quality to the flowers, and a perfume to richly repay the trouble.

SINGLE BALLOT

Everybody 'Votes' in Russia

By ROBERT ELPHICK
MOSCOW (Reuters)—All the power of the Soviet propaganda machine, press, radio and television, is being used to get Soviet citizens to the polls March 18 in Russia's rubber-stamp elections.

A turnout of 145,000,000 voters is expected in the first general election in the Soviet Union in four years.

The voters, everyone who has reached the age of 18 years, will be electing the Soviet Union's "best sons and daughters" to the Supreme Soviet, nominally the highest organ of state power in the land.

Premier Khrushchev and 1,428 carefully selected candidates will have their names on the single list of ballots to the two houses which make up the Soviet parliament.

There is no choice, although the voter has a theoretical right to cross out the name of any candidate he does not like.

BALLOTS ARE SECRET

The elections are to be conducted by secret ballot, although only an insignificant minority ever make use of the curtailed voting booths set up at polling stations.

Statisticians say the returns always show a turnout of only a fraction less than 100 per cent.

At the last elections in 1958,

99.37 per cent of eligible voters went to the polls set up wherever there are Soviet citizens, in every city and village. Examine settlement in the frozen north, embassies in foreign countries, in the Antarctic and even on ships on the high seas.

The two houses, the Soviet of the Union and the Soviet of Nationalities, always include carefully proportional numbers of peasants, town dwellers, intellectuals and women.

The propagandists compare this with Western parliaments, especially the U.S. Congress which, they say, is dominated by bankers and monopolists and is not representative of the people.

Byelections

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal by-elections in two ridings in Ontario and Quebec have been called for Sept. 10 though a general election call could wash them out.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced the date in the Commons Tuesday for voting in Waterloo South and Nicolet-Yamaska, both formerly held by Progressive Conservatives.

His choice of Sept. 10 caught a lot of Parliament Hill-observers flat-footed. They had been speculating that Mr. Diefenbaker would set a June by-election date in these ridings to test the political climate in the two vital provinces with an eye to a general election in the fall.

The latest twist left some of them wondering if the prime minister may be eyeing Monday, Sept. 10 for the big vote. The two by-elections will be held only if the 24th Parliament is not dissolved before then.

DIED IN OFFICE

They would fill vacancies left by the death of William Anderson, member for Ontario's Waterloo South, in his Commons office last June 6 and the resignation of Mines Minister Paul Comtois following his appointment as lieutenant-governor of Quebec Oct. 6.

The two ridings are mainly rural and agricultural. Waterloo South lies just south of the industrial centre of Kitchener in southwestern Ontario.

The by-elections would fill two of the three vacant seats in the Commons. The third is Mackenzie River which was held by Liberal Mervyn Hardie before his death last Oct. 18.

Mr. Diefenbaker told the Commons Tuesday that there will be no by-election in Mackenzie River until Parliament decides on a private member's bill now before it which would add 4,000 voters in Kewatin and Franklin districts to the sub-Arctic riding.

TRADITIONALLY TORY

Liberal party sources look upon the by-election contests as real tests of strength. Waterloo South is a traditionally Conservative seat, won only once since 1900 by a Liberal.

Nicolet-Yamaska has a predominantly Liberal record but was won in 1958 by Mr. Comtois with 11,880 votes to his Liberal opponent's 7,219.

Ocean Acreage Subsidy Proposed for Fishermen

OTTAWA (CP)—Newest idea by an opposition MP: Ocean acreage payments for hard-pressed fishermen.

"One dollar per cubic mile of ocean," Frank Howard (CCF-Skeena) proposed in the Commons Tuesday night after noting that drought-stricken Prairie farmers on three occasions have been paid $1 an acre up to a maximum of $200 per farmer.

Up for debate was a government measure to extend the Fisheries Improvement Loans Act for another three years from June 30, 1962. The ceiling on individual loans is $4,000 and the interest rate five per cent.

MPs from the Atlantic provinces and British Columbia didn't laugh off Mr. Howard's suggestion. Some of the sharpest criticism of the government in this field came from two Maritime Progressive Conservatives.

Robert S. MacLellan (PC-Inverness-Richmond) said Canadian fishermen need help just as much as underdeveloped countries in Asia receiving Canadian aid under the Colombo plan.

SUGGESTS INQUIRY

He suggested a royal commission be established to inquire into the fishing industry. There was no other sector of the economy which needed attention more.

Both me and W. L. M. Creighton (PC-Westmorland) said the Fisheries Improvement Loans Act has been of little or no use and that a credit corporation for fishermen is needed.

A resolution, preparatory to a bill, to extend the act was approved.

Dr. Howard said that if farmers are entitled to a subsidy, surely fishermen are entitled to equal consideration.

J. W. Pickersgill (L-Bonaville-Twillgate) said the fishing industry has been "steadily declining" under the Conservative government.

FAVORS ANOTHER PROBE

Finance Minister Fleming, piloting the legislation through the House, informed Chesley W. Carter (L-Burin-Burgeo) that only two loans totalling $4,800 were made to Newfoundland fishermen between April and December last year.

Herman M. Batten (L-Humber-St. George's) suggested an inquiry into the reasons why the Fisheries Improvement Loans Act had had so little appeal for fishermen.

H. J. Robichaud (L-Gloucester) said the act should be broadened to provide assistance to fishermen struck by storm disasters.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

ROME—Our man in Rome—that's me—got invited to Eddie Fisher's party for Liz Taylor's 30th birthday, and is now trying to think up a not-too-way of saying "love-dovey."

That's how they acted at the party, which was held at Dante's old digs, the famous and expensive night club called Horatio's. Ours, which lures all the tourists each summer, Eddie flung the party in the private room: up stairs, La Cabala, and the B.W. and I were really flattered to get asked.

I'd seen Liz filming "Cleopatra" here in the new Hollywood but had only talked to Eddie on the phone. He said he'd meet me somewhere.

Then came a disappointing call from "the villa," his eight-bedroom, seven-bathroom house 20 minutes from Rome, a two-floor ranch-house-type structure called "Villa Papa," no relation to Eddie's hit song, "O Mein Papa."

"Liz doesn't have to work so I'm going to spend the day with my wife," he said, very possessively, I thought.

ANOTHER CALL

Just when I figured I wasn't going to see him, came another call: I should come over to the birthday party.

Mail Burns Inside Car

OTTAWA (CP)—About 35 bags of westbound second-class mail were destroyed here Monday night when fire broke out in a CNR mail car, post office officials said Tuesday.

The sealed mail contained 350 bags of newspapers, magazines and parcels bound for points in Western Canada.

It is thought piled bags toppled on to a coal-burning heater in the centre of the car.

Post office officials said senders of the publications were notified of the fire and the western points affected will receive new copies in a later shipment.

In 1960 school age children (6 to 17 years inclusive) constituted 23.5 per cent of the population, compared with 20.4 per cent in 1951.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to Naturally, on arriving, I gave Liz a kiss. How many chances does a guy get to kiss a girl who's called the most beautiful in the world and also capable of making $50,000 a week, on from one picture, $5,000,000?

(Aside to myself: Fifty grand a week! That's what they keep saying.)

Yet I wouldn't care to be Liz—even if I were a girl. How can she be expected to stand up under this glare of publicity, never able to go out to dinner without five or six or even 50 or 60 photographers pursuing her? It's enough to make a strong man crack.

And everybody on the masculine side is jealous of Eddie. The poison pens of the Italian press never give him a chance. They call him "Mr. Cleopatra."

Considering that the American public never thought the marriage would last this long, Eddie is away ahead of the game. In the face of all the rumors of Liz' problems, illnesses and girlish crushes, he rather gallantly keeps his chin up and pushes forth, ever forward, ever onward.

Do I suppose the marriage will break up?

IT'S AUTOMATIC

Oh, in my business you just automatically suppose every one will break up. But this one I would like to see endure because the principals would be licking such gigantic odds.

The end of the picture will be the time of crisis.

"When do you think the picture will be finished?" I asked Liz on the set the other day.

"I used to say 'suddenly next summer,'" she said, shivering in the chilly studio. "Now I'm saying 'suddenly next winter.'"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... George Jessel had a backstage visitor at his international premiere—Beverly Aadland—but he was absent.

(Jessel insists this is his "last time around; and I'll be out of show business in four weeks.")

Frank Sinatra and Dean Martin reportedly did the Judy Garland TV'er for a mere 40Gs each, as a favor to her...

Joe Louis said at Gatsby's he'll "take four Pakistan," a guest of the government... Veronica Lake's getting back into show

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Pamela Yura, age 12, Gary, Ind. for her question.

How Does Gravity Make Things Float?

A balloon of helium gas will float high in the air. A cork and even a lump of foamy pumice stone will bob on the surface of the water. An iron poker will sink through water, but it will float on a pool of mercury. The force of gravity plays a part in these floating tricks, but so do other forces.

A buoy is a floating marker to warn ships at sea and buoyancy is the floating quality which makes balloons rise in the air and lifebelts bob on the waves. Buoyancy gets its bouncy energy from a combination of two natural forces, gravity and pressure. Mercury is denser than iron which is why gravity exerts a greater force upon it, making it a heavier material. A pool of mercury also exerts pressure under a bar of iron. These two forces working together make the iron float on the surface of the liquid mercury.

Sink in Jupiter's Ice

An astronaut might weigh 150 earth pounds, but when he lands on Mars, he will weigh only 54 pounds. If he lands on Jupiter, perish the thought, he will weigh 406 pounds and sink down through the soupy ices which, we are told, may cover the surface of the giant planet. But a feather might float there because the upward pushing pressure from the ices would be stronger than its weight.

Gravity is a mysterious force of attraction built into every object. The more massive an object, the more gravity it exerts. The mass of an object is the amount of matter packed into a certain space. A ball of coal is more massive than a ball of feathers because it is denser. It has more atoms and molecules packed closer together than the fluffy feathers.

Every object exerts some gravity on every other object. But compared with the gravity of the massive earth, even the gravity of a big mountain counts for almost nothing. The weight of a pound of cheese, or anything else, is the measure of the attraction of gravity between the cheese and the earth. Your weight is a gift from the earth, but your ability to float in the salty sea borrows some of the pressure exerted by the surrounding water.

Maybe you have tried to lift a big stone from the bottom of a stream. You get it to the surface, and then find it too heavy to carry. No, it did not gain any weight. While you were lifting it through the stream, the water exerted pressure on its entire surface. The pressures around the sides canceled each other out, leaving only a pushing pressure from below. This pressure helped you lift the stone through the water and made it seem lighter. The same combination of gravity and pressure provide the buoyancy which makes a balloon rise, a cork bob on the water and a bar of iron float on a pool of mercury.

Designers of ships and aircraft must calculate the quality of buoyancy to the finest fraction. They must know the density of the object they want to float and the exact pressure of the substance around it. In designing space craft, there is another factor. The force of gravity diminishes with distance and out in the void of space a ship is weightless because it has escaped the pull of the earth's gravity.

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Charles Hite, age 13, of Waynesboro, Va., for his question:

Where does mistletoe grow?

This pale green parasite plant is a native of the earth's temperate regions. It depends upon the oak, the apple and many other trees that lose their leaves during the winter season. The seeds of the mistletoe are inside the waxy white berries. They are carried by birds who eat the berries and perch high in the branches of the host trees. A lucky seed will lodge in a crack of bark and grow roots down into the wood of the host tree to feed upon its sap.

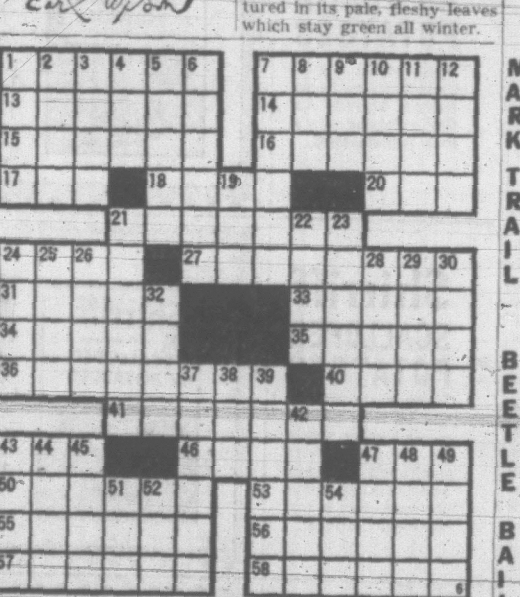

Though we call the mistletoe a parasite, we are not certain that this is entirely true. The airy, clinging plant certainly takes its life from the sap of the host tree, but some of its food may be manufactured in its pale, fleshy leaves which stay green all winter.

WISH I'D SAID THAT

An egotist is a guy who looks out the window and complains "what terrible weather I'm having!"—Sid Reznick.

Paul Taubman, who has two Picassos, says: "Modern paintings are like women—you'll never enjoy them if you try to understand them." That's Earl, brother.

Youngsters Develop In Image You Create

By LESLIE J. NASON, D. Ed.
University of Southern California

Parents play the most important role in helping their children develop their abilities and personalities. Children learn to see themselves as persons through the eyes of their parents.

The way you act toward them; and more important, the way they think you feel about them, becomes the way they expect all others to act toward them and feel about them.

They come to feel that way about themselves.

School also has a strong effect upon how children picture themselves. When they start on a cycle of success in school, they picture themselves as persons who learn easily — or at least as persons who can learn.

They're Convinced

However, when they start on a cycle of failure they become convinced that they are stupid.

The student who is not working up to capacity usually pictures himself as a person incapable of better work. Statements of parents and teachers, even test scores given by counselors, have little effect in changing his picture of himself.

Over the years a succession of high school and college students have come to me with the same story:

"My parents and counselors say I should be doing better work. They say I should become an engineer or a doctor or a lawyer, but I am not as smart as they say I am!"

'I Can't Do It'

"I am doing the best I can in school. The prospect of four to eight more years of school frightens me. I don't think I can do it successfully."

These students are sincere, but they see themselves as less capable than they really are. They have at least as much innate ability as the tests show. They probably have more.

In every case I have found they use inefficient study techniques. In most cases they are surprised to learn that there are better ways to study and to think.

Their attitudes of mind have come about gradually. As students work their way through the grades and high school, they use makeshift systems of study. They pick up plans of study through trial-and-error methods.

Good students are those who find good study methods.

Underachievers are not so lucky. They do not realize that the better students are smarter than they are.

their plan of study, let alone change it. Students discover a whole new study plan by consulting a good source of study techniques.

When they are helped to plan their study procedures, they can prove to themselves that they are capable. Their habit of seeing themselves as dull changes. Their approach to study becomes purposeful.

Purposeful students grow into secure students who are able to handle the problems they meet along the way. The children who lack this sense of purpose, however, usually just drift along.

Parents of children who have a strong sense of purpose have helped them to develop it. The parents have set up a pattern for dealing with their children that stimulated learning.

Chivalry Doesn't Pay

Twentieth century chivalry took a beating in city police court Monday when a gallant young sailor was fined after helping a maiden in distress.

William John Bos, HMCS Saguenay, went to the aid of a girl who had lost a heel from one of her shoes. She had asked him to give her a lift home.

So they climbed aboard his motorcycle and put off only to be stopped a short while later by the stern arm of the law.

"The law says motorcycle riders must sit astride the machine," prosecutor Angus Smith told Magistrate William Ostler, "and the lady was sitting side-saddle."

"She was wearing a tight skirt," explained the sailor. Magistrate Ostler fined Bos $5 on this charge and $15 for not having a B.C. driver's licence.

In 1959-60 Canadian private business schools enrolled 21,000 full-time students and 23,000 part-time or evening students.

52.3% of all Canadians interviewed in a recent detailed survey made an understandable mistake. They thought Valiant cost from $80 to $600 more than Canada's lowest priced compact car. Fact is, Valiant costs only $7.10 more than Canada's lowest priced compact car!

How could people be so mistaken? Easy! Valiant is designed to look more expensive... and it has many, many dollars worth of extra features tucked away inside it. For instance... a big 101-HP Slant Six engine... tight-as-a-drum, rustproofed Unibody construction... buoyantly smooth Torsion-AIRE ride... new feather-light steering... plus 32,000 mile chassis lubrication and 4,000 miles between oil changes. And, of course, a complete choice of models—sedans, hardtops and big, comfortable wagons. No wonder Valiant has become the King of the Compacts... no wonder so many people think it comes with a king-size price tag... no wonder the low price delights so many people into owning a Valiant! Treat yourself to a Valiant today... and get all these plus value features for only $7.10 more* than Canada's lowest priced Compact Car!

THE SCOREBOARD BY Harry Grayson

MESA, Ariz. (NEA)—Philip K. Wrigley is the wealthy and kindly proprietor of the Chicago Cubs.

P. K. Wrigley never fires anybody. He used to make them vice-presidents. Now there is room for all deserving ex-managers and former players on an 11-man coaching staff.

A year ago, after having gotten precisely nowhere with one manager at a time, Wrigley decided that perhaps there was strength in numbers, after all. So, he named 11 revolving coaches. It was said at the time that maybe Wrigley thought the Cubs played football. After all, it appeared that way and he obviously determined to have an instructor for each position.

The idea seems to be to wrap the parent organization and five farm clubs into one big understanding family. The coaches serve with the big club for a spell and then beat it for the chain stores—this year in Salt Lake; San Antonio; Wenatchee, Wash.; St. Cloud, Minn., and Palatka, Fla.

Whatever the reason, the 11-man formula is starting its second season, when practically everybody predicted it would open and close in one.

Everybody associated with the alternating coaches innovation insists it helped speed the development of young prospects now working at Rendezvous Park in Mesa, the pretty and rapidly expanding Mormon town situated east of Phoenix in the heart of the Cactus League.

This you could expect from beneficiaries of Wrigley's largess, but Harry Craft, now managing the new Houston Colt .45s full time down the road at Apache Junction, agrees with them. Craft last season split Cub assignments between the big club, San Antonio of the Texas League, and Houston of the American Association.

"The Cubs get 11 reports on prospects instead of one and that can't be bad," he said. "One coach may see something in a boy that another might miss."

Youngster Gets Feeling He Belongs

Charley Grimm, listed as a trouble-shooter, at first was skeptical about the plan on the major league level.

"But the only complaints came from established major leaguers—Ed Bouchee, Don Zimmer, Richie Ashburn and Frank Thomas—who understandably wanted to play every day, although there were young guys who could do a better job," said Grimm. "We had big George Altman and Billy Williams in the outfield and Kenny Hubbs came up from Wenatchee (B Northwest League) to play second base."

"We have a lot of good kids," continued Grimm, who managed the Cubs on three different occasions. "The old first baseman pointed to Lou Brock, a 22-year-old outfielder, who hit .361 for St. Cloud in the Class C Northern League. "He is strong, can run, bunt, drag and hit the ball."

There are the $125,000 outfield beauty, Danny Murphy, and Moe McPhardt, who may start at first base, and more.

"A youngster gets the feeling that he belongs when coaches from the big club come to look at him for a month," Grimm went on, his eyes on prospects in the batting cage. "He is instructed by specialists—in hitting, bunting, dragging, taking a lead off base, fielding, off plays and basic defense."

Wrigley a year ago selected some of the foremost brains in baseball as mentors—Elvin Tappe, Vedic Himsel, Grimm, Craft, Rube Walker, Bobby Adams, Rip Collins, Joe Macko, Goldie Holt, Lou Klein and Fred Martin. The trouble was that he didn't have 11 good players to be coached.

With Craft gone to the Colt .45s, Charley Metro has been brought on as the 11th tutor. He developed Baltimore and Detroit stars at Vancouver and Denver. As I say, Wrigley spares nothing in his attempt to intellectualize his athletes.

The system may work for an outfit like the Cubs, but don't hold your breath until Don Topping sends Ralph Houk out into the chain to look at prospects while the Yankees are in the thick of the race.

PREP HOOP QUESTION

Who Will Win Times Trophy?

It is traditional that the team comes first in high school athletic circles, but you can't blame prep athletes for wondering today who will be the 1962 winner of the coveted Times Trophy.

The Daily Times Trophy is awarded each year to the player voted most valuable to his team in the annual Vancouver Island senior boys' high school basketball tournament, which goes Friday and Saturday at Oak Bay Senior High.

Selected this year by team coaches, the most valuable player will receive possession of the main trophy for one year and a replica for his permanent possession.

ALL-STAR HONORED

Also presented by The Times will be miniature gold basketballs to the five players chosen on the tourney's first all-star team and engraved silver teaspoons to members of the second all-star squad.

Winner of the most-valuable award last year was Murray Johnston of Oak Bay. Johnston and Mike Cranston, who placed the Oaks to their first Island crown, were selected on the first all-star club, along with Dave Milligan, Chemainus; Larry Lehtonen, Tsoumaz; and Bill Nordmark, Alberni.

FORMER TENNIS QUEEN

Althea Hopes to Match Babe's Feats

NEW YORK (AP)—Althea Gibson, 34, former tennis queen, wants to become the "new Babe."

She aspires to be the best woman golfer in the world and match the feats of the late Babe Didrikson Zaharias.

"It's no secret the Babe always has been an inspiration to me," Miss Gibson said in an interview. "She was a great all-round athlete who took up golf late in her 30s—and became the undisputed champion."

"I have a God-given talent for being able to do things with a ball. I have gone as far as I can in tennis. Now I intend to do the same thing in golf."

Those who have watched Althea's phenomenal progress on the links figure the five-foot-ten, 150-pound athlete will achieve her goal.

She took up golf seriously two years ago. She shot

REBOUND? YOU KIDDIN'?

If pee-wee-size Shawn Mack, No. 15, for Pomeroy High, doesn't expect to get the rebound, his face certainly doesn't show it. Confidence can only carry a fellow so high, however, and it didn't help Shawn grab the ball from portly and elongated Charles

Michelson of Central Webster High. Michelson took possession, Central Webster won the game at Fort Dodge, Iowa, and Pomeroy was out of the running in a district meet leading to the Iowa High School championship finals. (AP Wirephoto.)

Rangers' Hopes Soar As Langlois Connects

DETROIT (CP)—Al (Junior) Langlois, a six-foot, 198-pound defenseman, never had much luck scoring goals when he played with Montreal Canadiens.

But in 64 games with New York Rangers this season, he has counted seven goals and some of them have been timely.

His seventh elicited a three-goal comeback within two minutes and 18 seconds of the third period that brought Rangers an important 5-4 victory over Detroit Red Wings in Tuesday night's only scheduled National Hockey League game at Detroit. The win brightened New York's chances of catching a Stanley Cup playoff berth for the first time since the 1957-58 season.

Rangers now hold a three-point lead over the Red Wings in the two teams' struggle for the fourth and last playoff spot. The Red Wings, however, have three games in hand, having nine more games to play before the 70-game schedule ends March 25, to New York's six.

ERASED LEAD

Langlois scored at 12:00 of the third period after Larry Cahoon's second goal of the season and Camille Henry's 21st had erased a 4-2 Detroit lead.

For Langlois, who came to Rangers in a trade for John Hanna last summer, it was his second game-winning goal this season. On another occasion he scored a goal that earned Rangers a tie.

In 155 schedule and playoff games with the Canadiens, he counted only twice.

Johnny Wilson and Andy Hebenton were New York's other goal-getters. Hebenton also drew two assists, including one on Langlois' tally.

Gordie Howe and Alex Delvecchio were the key men in Detroit's attack.

Howe scored his 30th goal of the season and 49th of his brilliant career and also collected two assists. Delvecchio had three assists.

Warren, Godfrey and Vic Stasiuk were the other Detroit scorers.

The Wings went all out in the final minute in an effort to salvage a tie, pulling out goalie Hank Bassen for a sixth attacker. But the Rangers out-fought them and even missed three shots at the open net.

Mabey's Foursome May Be Dark-Horse

N.B. Surprises
In Early Rounds;
B.C. Shares Lead

KITCHENER (CP)—The Moncton curling rink has refused to play patsy to generally acknowledged powerhouses in the Canadian championships.

So, after four rounds in the 10-game round-robin meet, New Brunswick found itself in the unaccustomed role as co-leader. Tuesday with one loss in four draws along with such talented rinks as Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia.

Moncton forced the vastly more experienced British Columbia rink to an extra end before losing 11-9 in the fourth round after clobbering Northern Ontario 17-5 in the third.

New Brunswick could have beaten Reg Stone's Trail rink except for a coming-home light draw by Harold (Hap) Mabey, vice-skip who throws last rock. British Columbia was lying two in the four-foot circle with the house practically unguarded.

MISS BY INCHES

Another few inches and New Brunswick would have been the underdog in the curling classic, made a 12th-end single to force the game into the extra ends after building up a 5-2 lead, going into the sixth.

The 2,378 spectators at Memorial Auditorium also saw the defending champion, Hec Gervais of Edmonton, pass Manitoba 11-9 in an extra end. Nova Scotia came from behind to defeat Newfoundland 11-9, Saskatchewan scored seven in the final four ends to beat Ontario 13-7, and Northern Ontario counted a four on the 11th to defeat Quebec 13-10.

N.B. GIVES WARNING

British Columbia was New Brunswick's first real test after knocking off Quebec 11-9, Prince Edward Island 17-8 and Northern Ontario 17-5 in the opening three draws. And its showing against Stone was taken lightly.

Tuesday's rounds produced two double winners. Alberta edged Nova Scotia 9-8 in the third and followed with its victory over Manitoba in the fourth. British Columbia opened with an easy 13-8 victory over Saskatchewan and followed with its close decision over New Brunswick.

Curlers had this morning off while the Dominion Curling Association held its annual meeting.

Mayor to Open Friday Show Of Kennel Club

More than 200 entries have been received for the Victoria City Kennel Club's centennial championship dog shows Friday and Saturday at Club Si-rocco.

Mayor R. B. Wilson will officially open the event Friday at 8 p.m. and Mrs. Wilson will present prizes during Friday evening's group and best-in-show judging, club officials have announced.

Friday's show gets under way at 9:30 a.m. with R. A. Cross as judge. The Saturday show starts at 9 a.m. with Mrs. E. Stewart, Vancouver, and Mrs. W. P. Bowden, Victoria, sharing judging duties.

The Island Terrier Club's specialty show will be held in conjunction with Saturday's events, starting at 1:30 p.m.

LEGISLATURE HEARS

Impaired Hunters May Face Charges

An impaired hunting charge may be considered for shooters who mix shells and liquor but an automatic manslaughter indictment against hunters who shoot people is not favored by Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

He made his views clear in the legislature Tuesday. Cyril Sheford (SC-Omineca) had told him that both problems required action.

VIKING VIEWS

By LES MILLIN

Those who said it would take a minor miracle for the Victoria College ice hockey team to survive the semifinals of the Esquimalt and District Hockey League playoffs may have been surprised Friday night when the Vikings, tied with Navy for last place, knocked off the runner-up Army with a third-period burst of accuracy.

Cliff Russell and Ross Grenier came through with on-target shots in that last period to give the Vikings a 5-4 victory.

Kudos also go to another Grenier. With star goalkeeper Pat Cain still unavailable, Gordon Grenier once again stepped in to the College nets and came through with a fine performance while his big brother garnered a goal and an assist at the other end of the ice.

Vikings, who had been in a slump since Christmas, go against Army again Friday in the second game of the best-of-three series and there is hope around the campus that last week's victory is the stimulant that will lift Vikings back to their early-season excellence.

Grudge match from away back would be the best description of the women's grass hockey game scheduled for Sunday when the Victoria College Valkyries meet UBC's finest on the college's Gordon Head grounds.

Beaten 1-0 by the "Gastown" team in an exhibition match at the Evergreen Conference games in Pullman, Wash., last term, the Valkyries are going in with their fangs bared and their hopes high.

At least part of the game tension will be supplied by the fact that the UBC team includes renegade Victoria College players who learned the game over here before taking their studies and their talents to the mainland university.

Other disaffair sport on the weekend will have the college volleyball team playing in annual women's tournament Saturday in the Gordon Head gymnasium, starting at 1:30 p.m.

Nine high schools—Mt. View, Belmont, Mt. Douglas, Oak Bay High, North Saanich, St. Margaret's School, Milnes Landing, Victoria High and Cowichan High—will make up the other teams in the tourney. Finals are expected to begin around 4:30.

Questions overheard around the campus that seem to have no answers...

"What ever happened to that black ram that used to go to ice hockey and basketball games?"

"Is the college ever going to have any athletic bursaries?"

"Did Darrell Lorimer set a Canadian college record with his 52 points in a single basketball game?"

"With Canada's defence budget so high, why does the Army ice hockey team wear such droopy shorts?"

"Why do people come in droves to pep rallies and stay away in droves from actual games?"

Tri-Services "Spiel Slated at Esquimalt"
Tri-Services annual basketball will be held at Esquimalt Sports Centre Thursday and Friday.

Entries are expected from local bases as well as up-Island and mainland camps. Each service will be represented by four rinks. Wes Young and Trev Emberton will skip local Navy rinks.

OKANAGAN BASKETBALL
KELOWNA (CP)—Penticton Dealers downed Kelowna Royals 69-58 Tuesday to win the Okanagan senior "B" basketball championship.

REDS WANT 'WORLD' REMOVED FROM WORLD TOURNAMENT

Boycott Boys at It Again!

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (CP)—Russia sought today to turn the 1962 world hockey championships into a competition where the winner would be deprived of world recognition because of a Communist boycott. A spokesman for the West predicted that such a move would fail.

Canada is a heavy favorite to retain the world title it won for the 19th time in 29 championships last year in Switzerland.

The Russians announced they would bring up the question of world recognition at a meeting today of the directorate of the International Ice Hockey Federation, called to deal with last-minute details of the 12-day tournament.

Vasily Napanikov, the Soviet member of the IIHF directorate, said he would table a motion to strip the tournament of its championship label.

Tom Lockhart, president of United States Hockey Association and a long-time member of the directorate, said "I'm sure we have the votes to beat the Russian move."

The preliminary phase of the tournament begins today in Broadmoor World-Arena with the regular competition scheduled to start Thursday in two Colorado arenas 50 miles apart—Broadmoor and the Denver Coliseum.

Switzerland and Austria, consultation round competitors in the 1961 championships, meet in the only preliminary game of the tournament. The winner qualifies for the Group A championship, round-robin, made up of eight countries.

Canada, Britain, the United States, Sweden, Finland, Norway and West Germany are the other countries in the championship bracket.

Five countries and the loser of the preliminary match meet in Group B, a consolation round-robin. The five are the Netherlands, France, Japan, Australia and Denmark.

This year's Canadian representatives are the 1961 Allan Cup champions, Galt Terriers.

Predict Clean Sweep

After Finland Thursday, Canada meets West Germany, Switzerland or Austria, Sweden, Norway, Britain and the United States in that order. The tournament winds up Sunday, March 18, with the Canada-U.S. game to be televised by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The Americans and Swedes and possibly West Germany are the only clubs considered able to give the Canadians a battle.

The Americans have the five Canadian-born players in the lineup as well as three members of the victorious U.S. Olympic team of 1960—John Mayasich and the Christian brothers, Billy and Roger.

The Swedes boast a strong offensive lineup led by Sven (Tumba) Johansson, a colorful veteran forward who has scored 51 goals in world championship play since 1951.

and one—most vocal of all—wanted to stop all censorship. The anti-censor man was Dave Barrett (NDP-CCF Dewdney), who maintained that Shakespeare and Chaucer were just as raw as modern movies.

He didn't want to approve a $20,421 vote for provincial censorship of movies. He particularly objected to the $6,180 salary for the provincial censor, who gets a raise from $5,880 this year.

The censor in question, R. W. MacDonald, is a former chief petty officer from the navy. Mr. Barrett said he didn't know how this qualified him for the job. His salary also was "a bit high."

"I don't believe censorship is necessary," maintained Mr. Barrett.

He said the manufacturers of movies and public taste should do the job effectively.

"Some of the material I read in school—some of the material I read in Shakespeare—if we wanted to apply a strict moral code on censorship I don't think would get by," he said.

"Nobody's got it on Shakespeare when it comes to life in the raw."

JUST AS BAD
That was it, said Chaucer's Canterbury Tales were just as bad.

"The Canterbury Tales if they were put in modern English form would shock the pants off some of our leading citizens," said Mr. Barrett.

He not only called for elimination of B.C. movie censorship, but also for pressure on the federal government to stop censoring books.

"I don't think comic books should be censored either," he said.

James Rhodes (NDP-CCF-Delta) said MLAs should be allowed to see the movie censor in action and then decide if his job was essential.

This view was supported by Arthur Turner (NDP-CCF-Vancouver East).

But Randolph Harding (NDP-CCF-Kaslo-Slocan) was strongly opposed to his fellow members' views.

"I've seen literature that shouldn't be on the newsstands of any city or any village in this province," he said.

He called for "self discipline" in censorship.

"The very same thing applies to our pictures," he added. It was also adversely affecting children who watch television.

"I'm very happy to see this vote," said Mr. Harding.

"If some of the stupid and silly pictures were censored before they came across the line, it would do everybody a lot of good."

Mrs. Lois Hagen (NDP-CCF-Grand Forks) was also in favor of censorship.

She cited the case of the movie "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" which had somehow been shown at a children's Saturday matinee and made its young viewers "ill."

But because of the protests the provincial censor had ruled that the movie couldn't be shown to children.

Herb Bruch (SC—Esquimalt) also endorsed censorship.

"How you're going to keep showing some of this stuff to kids continually is beyond my comprehension," he said.

John Tisdalle (SC—Saanch) said that perhaps the censor wasn't getting paid enough. He had "a hazardous job."

He noted the assistant censor got only $4,476.

"Has he got just one eye or something?"

BLIND SEEK TO ABOLISH MEANS TEST

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Federation of the Blind Tuesday asked Health Minister Monaghan to abolish the means test for blind allowances.

The allowances, recently increased by $10 a month to $62, are paid to blind persons under a federal-provincial arrangement whereby the federal government pays 75 per cent and the province 25 per cent.

Federation delegates told the health minister the means test destroys the initiative of blind persons and forces many to remain without employment.

A blind person is allowed to earn up to $1,320 a year without his allowance being affected. Any earnings above this amount are deducted from the allowance.

'Music Through the Ages' Tonight

Music from the monasteries of the eighth century, an excerpt from the first comic opera, written in the 13th century, a selection of Elizabethan songs—these will comprise the first half of tonight's program, "Music Through the Ages."

Sponsored by Victoria Musical Art Society and arranged by the intermediate group under direction of Miss Norma Douglas, the concert will take place at Oak Bay Junior High School at 8.30.

A special interlude will be provided by the Christ Church Cathedral organist, Richard Proudman, who will play some pieces on the virginals, an ancient type of keyboard instrument named for the first Queen Elizabeth and in use in her era.

Songs by the Victoria High School Boys' Choir and Madrigal Singers and solos by Judy Porter, Roy Silver, Timothy Vernon, Judy Roberts and Ring Elverhoy are included in this portion of the program.

Church Accused Of Kidnapping

MINEOLA, N.Y. (UPI)—A 41-year-old mother, who identified herself as the wife of a Roman Catholic priest, has filed a $2,375,000 suit against the Church, Francis Cardinal Spellman and other individuals, charging they kidnapped her husband.

MURPHY, COX CLASH FRIDAY

Reeve Stanley Murphy of Saanich and Councilor Allan Cox of Oak Bay will debate amalgamation on Friday at 8 p.m. in the Faculty Building of the Gordon Head campus of Victoria College.

The panel discussion is the first of a series of five, entitled "Critical Issues of Our Time," presented by the Alumni Association of the University of B.C., Victoria College. A few seats for the series still are available and information concerning registration may be obtained by telephoning EV 5-3453.

Darshan Johal, of the Capital Region Planning Board, will act as moderator for the first debate.

Merger Aid Drummed Up For Wilson

Support for the principle of amalgamation of Greater Victoria municipalities will be urged on the Victoria Chamber of Commerce at the monthly directors' meeting Friday by vice-president John A. Wallace.

In a letter to the board to be placed before the meeting, Mr. Wallace says the chamber has in the past supported amalgamation and would be remiss in its duty if it did not offer Mayor R. B. Wilson its wholehearted support of his endeavors.

Mr. Wallace suggests that if his resolution is approved letters be sent to Mr. Wilson and city council and to the mayors and councilors of the municipalities requesting support for the mayor's proposal for further study of the question.

Mrs. Alice Belskis Ryan, mother of four daughters aged 10 to 5 years, said in the Supreme Court suit the defendants used "force" and intoxicating beverages to kidnap her husband from his Long Island home.

The suit, filed Tuesday, claimed she and her husband, Walter A. Ryan, 37, were secretly married in 1950 while he was assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Church in Glen Cove, N.Y.

The suit charged that Ryan was abducted and "forcibly detained" at the home of Kieran Fitzpatrick, then removed to monasteries. It said the church and its officials had full knowledge of the marriage and children.

DICKERS TWO YEARS

Mrs. Ryan's attorney, Philip Fiering, said he had been negotiating with the defendants for two years but that they proved unsatisfactory. Fiering said Ryan now is believed to be in San Francisco.

The brief said Mrs. Ryan has been on relief.

Mrs. Ryan is seeking $375,000 "exemplary and punitive damages" for herself and $500,000 for each of the children.

Also named as defendants were the Archbishop of New York and the dioceses of Rockville Center, N.Y., Springfield and Worcester, Mass., Brooklyn, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Chisholm Speaks At Sidney Monday

A meeting of the Canadian Peace Research Institute will be held at Sanscha Hall, Sidney, Monday starting at 8 p.m. Speakers will be Dr. Brock Chisholm, former director of the United Nations World Health Organization, and Dr. William Newton, former officer-in-charge of the Dominion plant pathological laboratory, Saanichton.

The meeting will be chaired by Dr. C. H. Hemmings.

MORE POLICE UNDER STUDY FOR SAANICH

Expansion of police forces on the Saanich Peninsula is now under consideration. Attorney-General Robert Bonner told the legislature Tuesday.

He was answering a request from John Tisdalle (SC-Saanich) that police forces be increased, or there be an extra highway patrol in the Sidney area to handle traffic from the Swartz Bay ferry terminal.

Mr. Bonner said there would be an expansion of police this year generally, and that the whole question of police forces throughout the province was to be "re-examined."

He said that the question of extra police for the Saanich Peninsula was "already under advisement."

MLA HAS DOUBTS

Should Police Carry Guns?

By AB KENT

The arming of police in this province is likely to continue for a long time, although the general practice of carrying a concealed weapon is discouraged by the attorney-general's department, legislators were told Tuesday.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner was replying to questions by North Vancouver Liberal member Gordon Gibson, who said he thought police here could do a better job without weapons.

"Why do you feel a policeman has a better right than any other citizen" to carry guns? the member asked.

"Should guns be carried at all by police?" Mr. Gibson asked. "I am very concerned about this matter."

SHOULD BE TRAINED

"I am afraid to see a man carry a gun unless he is trained to the utmost how to handle it."

"I think the penalty for robbery with a gun should be 20 times greater than robbery without a gun."

"Criminals would not hold up with a gun if they knew they were going to get two or three years (in jail) just for having a gun or concealed weapon," Mr. Gibson said.

The whole matter is covered by the Criminal Code of Canada, Mr. Bonner told the House.

But "the likelihood of any one (other than police) being permitted to carry a concealed weapon" is very remote here and elsewhere in Canada.

"We don't encourage people to carry weapons."

He said the practice of police carrying guns was influenced by the peculiar development of crime protection in North America with influence from police "across the border" rather than British customs.

"It is not likely to be discontinued soon. They (police) practically have to get shot at before they are justified in taking their guns out of the holster," Mr. Bonner said.

Powers Made Vain Bid To Wreck U-2

WASHINGTON (CP)—U-2 spy pilot Francis Gary Powers is free to choose his own life with the aid of some $50,000 in back pay after being vindicated and described by senators as a courageous American.

The final chapter of Powers' high-flying drama over Russia—which led to the collapse of a summit conference—unfolded before the Senate armed services committee Tuesday.

Powers said he couldn't use the pilot ejection mechanism provided in the plane.

"In this particular aircraft there isn't much clearance between the pilot's knees and the top of the windshield... and if I had used the ejection seat at that time I would probably have lost both legs just above the knees."

He opened the canopy, loosened his seat belt and was thrown half way out of the plane. He said he tried to get back into the aircraft to trigger destructor switches but couldn't. Finally "something snapped" and he was floating free.

DESTROYED MAP

Swinging from his parachute at about 10,000 feet, he tore up a small map. He said he opened up a coin in which there was a poison pin and dropped the pin loose in his pocket.

Did the Russians misquote him as having said he made a terrible mistake in flying a mission over Soviet soil and was sorry?

"No," he said, "that wasn't a misquotation. I made this statement on the advice of my defence counsel, and also because it was easy to say I was sorry. What I meant by saying that, and what I wanted them to think I meant was quite different."

"My main sorrow was that my mission failed."

'WAIT AND SEE' STAND ON CHRISTIE PT. PLAN

A public meeting will be called by View Royal Ratepayers and Community Association to discuss a proposed multiple-dwelling development on scenic Craigflower peninsula which juts into Portage Inlet.

A spokesman for the association said the meeting will be called as soon as a plan for the apartment project is submitted to the association for study.

Directors of the association met earlier this week but decision whether to approve or oppose construction of apartments was postponed until a later date.

"We want to see the plans first," said a director. The project is being promoted by Consolidated Building Corporation Ltd., Toronto, owners of the land.

The B.C. government controls the zoning of the property which is situated in unorganized territory adjacent to Esquimalt.

Saanich council earlier this week went on record as opposing the building project.

"Even if proper septic tanks or a sewage system is installed it won't do the Gorge waters any good," said Coun. Gregory Cook.

Coun. Joseph Casey said Capital Region Planning Board recommended the land be set aside for a park.

Sayward May Get New Prison Camp

A new forest prison camp on northern Vancouver Island will probably be part of a $12,000,000 reorganization of the provincial jail system, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Tuesday.

The plan—part of which he announced in the legislature—includes:

- Moving Oakalla Prison Camp to Haney Correctional Institute;
- Expanding forest camps and creating a new one at Sayward, 50 miles north of Campbell River;
- Establishing a temporary remand centre for holding persons awaiting trial in downtown Vancouver.

10 YEARS

Mr. Bonner said outside the House Tuesday night the shift from Oakalla would take about 10 years altogether, and would probably cost a total of $12,000,000.

Mr. Bonner told the legislature forest camps at Chilliwack and Kamloops will be expanded to take some of the load off Oakalla.

He said there will be a new camp, either at Sayward or Prince George—with Sayward most likely choice.

He said studies are now under way to see if "an extensive camp system" can be launched at the Island location.

The attorney-general said because of the "substantial investment" at Oakalla the abandonment of the present site would not occur immediately.

The remand centre in downtown Vancouver would be operated in conjunction with the law courts.

He said the 1,000 acres at Haney offer "lots of opportunity to relocate Oakalla in the Fraser Valley within 10 years."

The present site is becoming too urban with Burnaby developed on all sides, Mr. Bonner said.

There would remain at the present site a classification centre—a receiving centre from which prisoners may be sent elsewhere, such as Haney, forest camps or other locations.

Mr. Bonner said the present west wing at Oakalla jail was

B.C.-Wide Car Tests Under Study

Establishment of vehicle testing stations in B.C.—outside of Vancouver—is being studied by the motor vehicles branch, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said in the House Tuesday.

He was replying to Liberal leader Ray Perrault, who asked if it was intended to set up additional stations.

The motor vehicles branch has a "general budget and policy" for provision of inspection stations before it now, but no action is contemplated this session of the legislature, Mr. Bonner said.

A high capital cost would be involved, but later the stations would be self-supporting through payment of testing fees, the House was told.

Mr. Perrault also inquired whether legislation was to be introduced on making seat belts for automobiles compulsory.

STANDARD SOON

Mr. Bonner noted that belts had been installed on government vehicles for four or five years, but in view of his information that automotive builders planned to make seat belts standard equipment soon, no legislation was planned at this time.

Camille Mather (NDP-CCF—Delta) suggested that if there was a plan for a new motor vehicle branch—and it has been requested by the superintendent—that it be moved to the lower mainland from Victoria.

Because of the large motor-ing public on the mainland, that is where it "so rightly belongs," she said.

Mr. Bonner didn't answer this one.

'Petty Fraud' Crackdown Proposed in Liberal Bill

A bill aimed at protecting the consumer from unfair interest rates and other forms of "petty fraud" will be brought before the legislature this session, MLAs were told Tuesday.

Liberal Leader Ray Perrault said the private bill will be based on one of the national Liberals are working on through Senator David Croll.

He asked Attorney-General Robert Bonner during debate on the latter's salary estimates whether the govern-

'Drastic Need' For Reform Of Divorce Laws

Canada's divorce laws are in drastic need of reform, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Tuesday.

However, he told the legislature, it is not a provincial matter.

He expressed his personal opinion in answer to questions from Dave Barrett (NDP-CCF—Dewdney), but added, "It is not a view, I gather, of the current administration of Canada."

But he did have some advice to lawyers in B.C. for handling potential divorce cases.

Solicitors should try to settle marriage problems in every way possible before going ahead with a divorce case, he said.

ment intended to bring in an office of consumer affairs.

Mr. Perrault referred to similar offices in other parts of North America—in California, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York and Washington—which deal with such things as exorbitant interest rates, fraudulent dance lessons contracts, underweight frankfurters and milk containing nuclear fallout.

"And trading stamps?" a member of the opposition called.

"Trading stamps as well; other forms of petty fraud," Mr. Perrault replied amid general laughter from both sides of the House.

'WRONG WAY'

"That came out the wrong way," Mr. Perrault hastily corrected himself. (A legislative committee is studying the Aged naturally in the traditional manner...to assure Old Style flavour!

Old Style AGE

slower brewing is an Old Style tradition

Old Style is calmly brewed, with no concern for time. Faithful to our original recipe, carefully selected barley, hops and yeast are blended, brewed and, finally, put away to mature slowly in quiet ageing cellars. Brewed in this traditionally unhurried manner, Old Style's brilliant colour, fine flavour, and mellow taste mature naturally. Slower brewing is the reason so many people prefer Old Style.

NEW 'HEARING AID' FOR SUB-HUNTERS

MONTE ROBERTS

The Canadian National Railway has come up with an idea which is apt to send the likes of me into a nostalgic orbit.

The CNR (long may it survive its deficit) is planning rail excursions next summer for those who savor the pure joy of riding behind a coal-eating, steam-breathing, whistle-roaring locomotive as ever was.

And, I trust, these same excursions will be open to those unfortunate souls who have never been hauled on the long iron by a smoke-belching monster which made every mile between whistle-stop and whistle-stop an adventure in itself.

There was something about the steam locomotive, of the coal-firing era, setting it far apart from more prosaic means of transportation—including the horse and buggy and the rocket and space capsule.

In the engine cab (I feel so sorry for anyone who has never ridden the cab of a coal-fired steamer) there was the inferno of sound—wheels clanking over switch points, the fireman's shovel clinking on the pedal-operated firebox door, the wind shrieking in a back-draft between tender and cab. And there was the inferno of motion—rock, recover, rock again as flanges bit into the rails to keep the monster on the road.

Most of all, the inferno of color, especially at night—the signals showing green, the occasional lights of villages and towns moving backward in a sustained flash—the white-hot light as the fire-box flicked open for a brief moment as the fireman yanked out a clinker with his reversed shovel.

Meanwhile, back in the wooden coaches, those elaborate vehicles developed by George Pullman, the fortunate passengers had the benefit of just enough coal ash to counteract the smell of oranges and stale cigar smoke.

The mail car, the express car, the baggage car, the tourist class cars, the diner, and the pullmans, frolicked along obediently behind the wheeled fire-breather up ahead, each providing its own squeak, clack, rattle, roar, and feed-back, teeming in an ever-changing cadence to add to the glamorous whole.

The CNR has come up with an idea which has sent me into a nostalgic orbit.

Bless them for planning excursions for those who like to ride behind a real old coal-burner.

Only trouble is, the excursions are from Montreal. And how do I get there? In an antiseptic, aluminum, diesel-hauled, all-compartment thing roughly referred to as a train?

I guess I'll just stay home and dream.

Stamps 'Parasite' On Healthy Trade

Increased sales through use of trading stamps could not possibly cover the disparity in higher operating costs, a leading drug store chain told the legislative committee on trading stamps today.

The difference would have to be made up from increased prices, said Ralph Cunningham, president of Cunningham Drug Stores Ltd., which has 50 retail outlets plus wholesale, manufacturing and jobbing companies in B.C.

Committee members heard three pro-stamp briefs and one against trading stamps this morning.

In the case of Cunningham's, increased cost would be between three and four per cent of sales, or $240,000 to $320,000 a year. Normal promotional advertising costs the chain about $80,000 a year, Mr. Cunningham said.

He listed five main points in his brief to the committee:

1. Trading stamps if allowed to flourish will become a parasite living off what should be normal, healthy trade.

2. If the existing loophole in trading stamp legislation is not closed, the province will be forced to throw the field wide open by rescinding the act.

Thief Gets $700 From Flower Shop

Police Believe Door Lock Picked

A thief entered a florist shop in downtown Victoria sometime during the night and walked out with more than $700 in cash and cheques.

The theft was discovered at 8.30 a.m. today when staff arrived at Island Florists, 755 Yates Street, to open the premises for business.

City detectives said there were no signs of a forced entry into the store, which is on a brightly lighted street.

When the staff arrived for work they found the front door unlocked.

It is possible the lock was picked, detectives said.

"It's terrible," owner Norma Fitzsimmons said.

MORE-THAN-USUAL "We don't normally leave that much money in the store overnight, but we had a couple of good business days this week," she said.

The money was kept in a cash box in a drawer in the office.

B.C. to Drink Polio 'Shots' This Summer

British Columbians will receive new oral polio vaccine this summer instead of injections.

Health Minister Eric Martin said Tuesday that his department has already ordered all the oral vaccine it needs for free protection from polio.

"We put in our order to the amount that's needed," he said.

Mr. Martin said the vaccine would be shipped "as required and available."

"The only reason why we haven't got oral vaccine before is that the manufacture has not been in sufficient supply to enable the provinces to use it," he said.

Mr. Martin said that U.S. tests of the new oral vaccine—taken in liquid form like medicine—had proved its effectiveness.

MADE IN CANADA It has been approved by the federal health department, and now is being manufactured in Canada.

Up to now B.C. has used Salk polio vaccine, injected in the arm.

Mr. Martin said that there had only been six cases of polio in B.C. last year, while the Salk vaccine was in use.

However, people would have a choice of oral or Salk vaccine this year.

There would be enough oral vaccine to fill B.C.'s needs provided the manufacturer comes through in time, Mr. Martin said.

$3,000 Grant Awarded To Sculptor at Sidney

John Ritchel, 1740 Lands End Road, Sidney, has been awarded a $3,000 Canada Council grant for research work in coloring metal sculpture.

With the money, the artist hopes to make metal sculpturing more appealing to the general public.

"Metal sculpturing can do a lot more for people if we can introduce color in this aspect of art," he said. "It's a bit cold without color."

Mr. Ritchel finished much of his formal training in art as a commercial fisherman. He and his mother, a widow, operated a fishing boat and went out to sea with the commercial fishing fleet.

Mr. Ritchel studied at the Vancouver Art School and later in New York under William Zorach, one of best known sculptors in the United States.

Apart from sculpturing, Mr. Ritchel is a first-class painter and potter. He operates his own kiln which he designed and built himself.

HOWARD LIM... best of many

Fellowship To Assist City Student

Perennial prize-winning student at Victoria College Howard Lim, 21, has topped his list of academic honors with the coveted Woodrow Wilson Fellowship, it was learned today.

The fellowship, worth some $4,000, is awarded for post-graduate study to a student showing "academic brilliance and personal suitability."

Mr. Lim, a fourth-year honors psychology student, will use the fellowship to take his masters degree in psychology at either Stanford University, California, or Clark University, Mass. He intends to specialize in personality theory of research.

The coveted award was made to a Victoria College student for the first time only last year when it was won by David Alexander of Nanaimo.

Mr. Lim won the Weston Bakeries scholarship for $250 in 1959, the Victoria Gas Co. scholarship for $250 in 1960, and the Percy H. Elliot Memorial scholarship for $130 and Rotary Club of Douglas scholarship for $100 in 1961. In addition he has won government scholarships to cover university fees each year since he entered college in 1959.

He is president of the 1962 graduating class.

He also disclosed that prior to the completion of the board's overall plan for the Greater Victoria area, the 1959 council went on record as favoring a tourist centre at that location.

If the plan is approved, he said, the site would be developed in depth to prevent ribbon development along the highway. There would also be access to Beaver Lake.

"We also recommend strict control of commercial signs in a development of this type," he said. "The idea is to have a well-planned tourist-recreation centre which would tie in with the neighboring area."

Mr. Parry is optimistic that the site could become a major tourist centre.

"If properly developed, it would induce tourists to stay in the area," he said.

WILLING Oak Bay Reeve George Murdoch earlier said that the board had appeared co-operative and willing to agree to the arrangement proposed by the municipal council in an attempt to compensate for the loss of potential tax revenue from the area had it been subdivided.

He said the estimated loss was $80,000 a year, in addition to extra expenditures on water, sewer and road services that had been installed in anticipation of a subdivision.

Reeve Murdoch also said the college would benefit through lease revenue from the high rise apartments on its land.

Triplet Dies At Courtenay Infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Parkin, Courtenay, one of triplet girls born three months ago, was found dead in her crib Tuesday.

Pneumonia was believed the cause of death.

The babies had been brought to Victoria shortly after birth for treatment of a blood defect, and had been kept for six weeks. They had been home about a month.

ASK The TIMES Q—What singer has sold the most popular records, and who is close behind? B.W.

A—Elvis Presley has sold the most. Others who have sold many records are Ricky Nelson, Chubby Checker, Roy Orbison, Bobby Vee, Andy Stewart and Paul Anka.

Q—Could you please tell me whether Buster Keaton, the comedian, is dead or alive? J.P.

A—He is alive at 66.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Members of the Thetis Park Nature Sanctuary Association will hold a work "bee" on Saturday. Assembly will be at the Thetis Lake Concession parking lot at 2 p.m.

Bill Cushing will speak on "An Engineering Approach to the Selection of Protective Coatings", Tuesday, at 8.30 p.m., to the Victoria Branch, American Society for Metals. The social hour will commence at 7.30 p.m.

Mayor R. B. Wilson will sign a proclamation declaring next week as DeMolay Week in honor of the international boys' organization, celebrating its 43rd anniversary. Victoria chapter of the Order of DeMolay has about 80 members.

The annual meeting of the Royal Jubilee Hospital Society will be held next week in the Nurses' Residence lounge. Directors' reports and election of four members to the board are scheduled for the meeting, Wednesday, at 8 p.m.

Construction contract for the 19-store Esquimalt Plaza on Esquimalt Road has been awarded to a Vancouver firm.

Frank B. Jones Contracting Ltd. will build the shopping centre on property adjacent to the municipality's Sports Centre.

A spokesman for the municipality said the construction company will hire local workers to build the plaza, bringing over only an engineer and a foreman.

The plaza will feature a Safeway supermarket.

Estimated cost of the project is $302,500, not including specialized store fronts for the various unit occupants.

Completion of the plaza is scheduled for early in June.

The annual meeting of the Victoria Senior Citizens' Housing Society will take place Monday at 8 p.m. at Spencerhouse, 1951 Cook Street.

A. H. Roberts will address the meeting and his subject will be "Urban Renewal and Housing for the Aged."

An address "Theosophy and the Space Age" will be given by Mrs. Edith Latimer, Bellingham, at a public meeting of the Besant Lodge, 902 Government, Sunday, at 7.45 p.m.

With numerous service stations mushrooming throughout the Greater Victoria area, the city is being treated to a switch.

Imperial Oil Company's service station at Queens and Douglas is being demolished and the 100 by 100-foot lot will be offered for sale as a site for commercial development but prohibiting erection of another service station there.

SHE FLIPPED HOME THE WINNER

Mrs. E. A. Jarman flipped a pancake with speed and precision while running a 50-yard course at Ganex Tuesday—Shrove Tuesday—to win the annual pancake classic sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion branch there.

Second and third in the ladies' open event were Mrs. R. C. Hill and Mrs. F. W. Kirkham.

Other winners were: Mrs. Bishop Wilson, grandmother; Leon duPlessis, men's open; David Pringle, children under 10; Kelly Ryland, children over 10.

Mild, moist weather, with fog patches tonight and Thursday, and the chance of rain by Thursday night or Friday morning, were predicted today by weatherman William Mackie.

Thursday will be a sunny day that's trying to be cloudy, or a cloudy day trying to be sunny," he said.

The temperature range overnight was from 28 to 37 degrees, he said, and the prediction for tonight is for 28 to 35 degrees. Maximum Thursday will be 50 degrees, and winds will be light.

Put Nail Care on Top Of Good Grooming List

By PENNY SAVER

With the varied duties we women must perform, our hands, which should be our pride and joy, are usually the bane of our existence. But with proper safeguards and a little bit of time, they can be made neat and trim.

Here are some helpful hints which, if practiced regularly, will go a long way toward bringing nails back to perfection. Once a week devote at least 30 minutes to a complete manicure. All that's needed is polish remover, emery board, cuticle remover, orangewood sticks, a generous swab of cotton, a surface conditioner to give nails a flat, rigid surface upon which to work, and a favorite shade of polish.

Want a simple method? Try this: Remove old polish with polish remover; file nails with emery board using sweeping strokes in one direction (not too closely at corners, this will weaken nails); push cuticles back with cotton-tipped orangewood stick moistened in cuticle remover. Wipe nails off again with polish remover; reinforce nails with surface conditioner; use two coats of polish.

It's as simple as that, and the results are worth every minute of effort.

How much is it going to cost you to get this manicure supply? Let's start with the polish remover. A five-ounce bottle of gentle, oily remover that contains pure lanolin is selling for 45 cents.

Emery boards are only 15 cents for eight. Bottles of oily cuticle remover are only 49 cents and included in the package is a manicure stick and cotton swab. The surface conditioner is not a polish and not a base coat, but is applied as regular polish would be. For 59 cents you can prevent chipping, splitting and cracking. Polishes are available in eight shades of red, as well as colorless and six pastel pearl shades for 49 cents; two shades of green, purple, blue, gold and brown, are 59 cents each.

Want to give your nails the care they need? Call me and I'll tell you where to get the materials.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

If Golden Years Are To Be That—You Have to Eat Right

If the food we eat is as important to us as it is now thought to be, it may be that habits in eating either promote or delay physical deterioration.

Many folks think that old people do not must plan full, well-balanced meals for a young family. Some of them are living alone and it seems laborious to prepare a proper meal for themselves. In some instances, they have neglected their teeth and, therefore, have difficulty eating many foods.

However, it seems to me that the psychological factors are probably the greatest; lack of incentive to prepare well-balanced meals, and the thought that good nutrition is not so important after a certain age.

Recent studies have shown that the diets of elderly people are too low in high-grade proteins such as meat, fowl, fish, eggs, seafood, cheese and milk, and vitamin-rich vegetables and fruits.

Not long ago at a symposium on the aging at the annual meeting of a home economics association, many such interesting ideas were presented on correct diet for the older person and it was pointed out that the later years must be "active, lean and interesting, if they are to be golden and not merely proof of empty survival."

For many years now the importance of the right food for the infant, the child and the teenager, has been spotlighted. What a shame it seems that all those who are middle age and older do not take advantage of the facts

TODAY'S RECIPE

PRUNE PIE

One cup chopped prunes, ¼ cup water, 2 eggs, 1 cup dark corn syrup, 1½ teaspoon vanilla, ¼ cup brown sugar, packed, 2 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine, ½ cup chopped or diced roasted almonds, unbaked single 9-in. pie crust.

Combine prunes and water. Cover and simmer 10 minutes. Allow to stand while preparing remaining ingredients. Beat eggs lightly; add corn syrup and vanilla. Blend together brown sugar, flour, salt, cinnamon and melted butter; add to egg mixture with almonds, prunes and prune liquid. Place in pastry-lined 9-in. pie pan.

Bake in very hot oven (450 degrees F.) for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to moderately slow (325 degrees F.) and bake 30 to 35 minutes longer. Makes eight servings.

CLUB WOMEN'S NEWS

Broadcast: Arbutus Toast

Arbutus Toast, mistress Club held its annual radio broadcast night in the Blue Room with Mrs. Pat Grafton in charge. Members gave short talks on things to do and see in Victoria's centennial year. Program was taped and played back for voice criticism and message appeal. Table topic was a spelling match conducted by Mrs. D. J. Moore. Meeting chairman was Mrs. R. Overgaard; evaluator, Mrs. J. W. Gillis. Oscar was won by Mrs. Grafton.

Buy Supplies—Mrs. Donald Davis, house committee chairman, reported at recent meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the YM-YWCA that new sheets, bedspreads and drapes for the YMCA building had been purchased with $300 voted at previous meeting. It was agreed that the auxiliary would provide refreshments at annual YM-YWCA board meeting to be held March 28. Plans were finalized for bake sale to be convened by Mrs. Ross Curtis, March 16, from 2 p.m. in Shop-Easy Store, Shelbourne Plaza.

Early Start: Plans were made at meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to Lady Minto Gulf Islands Hospital for the annual bargain centre next September. Donations of new or used clothing, household or other goods are already being picked up, sorted, and will be stored in a room in the hospital basement. Anyone wishing to donate may do so by telephoning Ganges 576 or 224. Mrs. W. E. Dipple presided and Mrs. P. H. Lasenby reported on visits to patients and distribution of comforts. Sewing convener Mrs. E. Parsons was authorized to buy material for sterilizing covers. Tea was served and members spent an hour doing machine and hand repairs to hospital linens.

In Text Books—Mrs. C. Porter gave a talk on contents of text books and reference magazines in the guild library at meeting of Victoria Handweavers' Guild. Miss Marjorie Hill judged the entries for the monthly competition. A special guest was Mrs. Leo Nimsick.

New Officers—Mrs. J. Boam was elected president of the Ex-WRCNS Association at recent meeting. Other officers are Miss H. Cowhig, vice-president; Mrs. P. Dunn-Tangaa Vows In James Bay Church

A double-ring ceremony recently united Anna Lisa Tangaa and Clark William Dunn, in James Bay United Church. Rev. T. G. Griffiths officiated.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Tangaa, 435 Niagara Street; and Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Dunn, of 931 Lakeview.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a white afternoon dress of peau de soie, styled with short sleeves and round neckline. Her fingertip veil of nylon net, appliqued with roses, misted from a pearl and rhinestone tiara. In her bouquet she carried pink roses. Her only jewelry was an heirloom Danish gold cross.

Maid of honor, Wendy Mar, wore a pink silk dress with flowered hat in tone. She carried a white gardenia.

Dan McMillan was best man and ushering guests to their pews were Tom Dunn, brother of the groom, and Terry Mar. During the signing of the register, Mrs. George Cooley, aunt of the bride, sang "Be-

DEAR ABBY . . .

The Psychology of All!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband tends bar in a cocktail lounge that hires only shapely waitresses who wear as little as the law allows. One girl started to work there last month and my husband came home and told me what a "sweet kid" she was. He couldn't stop talking about her. He met her husband and said they acted very much in love. Then he added that the husband reminded him of himself when he was about 30!

I told him that he really was coveting another man's wife, but took comfort in the fact that the woman he wanted loved a man who resembled him! He said I was crazy and should quit reading Freud. In your opinion, was my husband mentally unfaithful to me? I am 52 and he is 56.

DEAR NO: Men are not jalled for their thoughts, nor should your husband be condemned by you. P.S. Freud would have been more interested in you than your husband.

DEAR ABBY: Since when do they pick bridesmaids according to weight? My daughter's friend is being married in June and she told my daughter if she lost 20 pounds by that time, she could be a bridesmaid. Otherwise, she could preside at the guest book. My daughter is a little overweight, but I don't think that should make any difference. She doesn't know what to do. She wants to be a bridesmaid, but what if she can't stay on her diet?

FAT GIRL'S MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER: The decision should be your daughter's.

ter's. Perhaps her friend is trying to do your daughter a favor and give her an incentive to lose weight. If I were your daughter, I would accept the challenge—and win.

DEAR ABBY—What do you think of a mother who calls a relative to thank her for a Christmas gift she sent her daughter? She said her daughter was "too busy" to write thank-you notes and I should excuse her. Do you think this is a proper "thank-you" from a 17-year-old girl?

DISGUSTED AUNT.

DEAR DISGUSTED: I do not. But don't blame the girl. Her mother obviously hasn't taught her better manners. And if you want to do a real service, wise up the mother.

CONFIDENTIAL to Mazie: Just because there's chrome on the dome doesn't mean there's no power under the hood. Many a man of 66 is still hitting on all cylinders.

The Right to Drink Must Be Defended!

The North Vancouver Liberal MLA—who's no teetotaler himself—delivered an impassioned defence of the right to drink during debate on alcoholism treatment in the House Tuesday.

He preached "moderation—but not moderation put on by someone else."

"Let those who know something about it handle it," he said.

"It's just as bad to be narrow-minded on any point—if you are too much it's just as bad."

"There are other little sins, that are very pleasant too, and you don't talk about them," he admonished MLAs.

The problems of alcoholism weren't really—that serious."

"It's education we need," he said.

"I know just as many unhappy people who don't drink," he avowed.

"There doesn't seem much difference in the length of time you live."

"I don't think that's part of us—to start legislating—calling people alcoholic."

He said the right approach is this:

"Don't tell them not to drink; tell them how to drink."

A man who drinks steadily is not as bad as a man who drinks spasmodically," he contended.

After he'd finished his 15-minute treatise, Harry McKay, Liberal from Fernie, informed the House that Mr. Gibson "wants it understood his talk was not in any way endorsed by the Liquor Control Board."

Bamfield Road This Year?

Highways Minister Gagliardi told a delegation from Bamfield Tuesday that a road connection may be made with the west coast community before the end of this year.

He said a plan exists to have MacMillan, Bloedel & Powell River build 1½ miles of road to extend its Franklin River road to the head of Grappler Creek, at a cost to the government of $30,000.

SHORT TRIP

The government then would build an additional 1½ miles of road, at a cost of $70,000, from Grappler Creek to East Bamfield, which is only a short distance by water from Bamfield.

With the road link completed, MB-PR then would turn the whole 56 miles of road over to the highways department, which would agree to maintain it at a cost of $10,000 per year.

Franklin River is about nine miles by road from Port Alberni.

Residents said they would be satisfied with a connection as outlined by Mr. Gagliardi, and discounted reports that they were demanding a $100,000 road to Bamfield proper.

LONG WAY AROUND

If a road was built directly into Bamfield, it would be forced to take the long way

There is a connection between Bamfield East and Sarita River, six miles away on the Franklin River Road, but it is by way of logging roads reached only by trails. These can be travelled only by two narrow-gauge cars built by residents.

No Laws Broken by Vang But Probe Pressed—A-G

Preliminary RCMP investigations into companies operated by Alfred E. Vang showed no evidence of breaking B.C. laws, but the probe is continuing, Attorney-General Robert Bonner told the legislature Tuesday.

He was answering questions from Opposition Leader Robert Strachan in a bitter exchange about stock promotion and the role of top civil servants in the activities of the Vang companies.

The debate revolved around the International African American Corporation, with mining interests in Liberia and a number of companies under the name of "Magne-tron" in which Mr. Vang had been involved.

'NONSENSICAL FRAUD'
Mr. Strachan said newspaper stories about these companies made them appear "a nonsensical fraud."

But he also asked about a departmental inquiry into holding of Vang shares by superintendent of brokers Stewart Smith and E. D. Cantell, superintendent of real estate.

Mr. Bonner replied that deputy attorney-general Gilbert Kennedy had looked into this question, but had not yet made a formal report.

However, he wanted to make it clear that so far there had been no evidence of wrongdoing on the part of his departmental officials.

He said that Mr. Smith held no Canadian shares whatever in his stock portfolio.

TELLS HISTORY

Mr. Strachan started out with a history of the activities of Mr. Vang in B.C.

He said that the IAAC was incorporated in Delaware but had a head office for a time in Vancouver.

In 1949 Mr. Vang came to Vancouver "flat broke" but promoting a "magna quantum" theory for producing electricity.

He then set up a number of companies under the "Magne-tron" name, said Mr. Strachan.

Mr. Strachan said that these companies had sold stock in B.C. and he wanted to know details. He asked if there had been any licence issued for sale of stock in the companies, and if they had been registered as B.C. companies.

Mr. Bonner replied that it was a "matter of extreme involvement."

Mr. Strachan wanted to know how it was that the superintendent of securities had not taken action against the Vang companies, which had been operating in B.C. for more than 10 years.

Mr. Bonner replied that after a preliminary investigation by the securities office, the whole Vang case had been turned over to the RCMP.

He said they had been asked to find if there had been any violation of the Companies Act or the Securities Act in B.C.

"I have been advised this was not the case," said Mr. Bonner.

He said the RCMP had been asked to make further investigations into all Vang companies, including the IAAC.

Mr. Bonner replied that deputy attorney-general Gilbert Kennedy had looked into this question, but had not yet made a formal report.

Gas Inquiry Almost Completed

Report of a special inquiry into the B.C. gas industry is almost complete and will be mailed soon to MLAs, Attorney-General Robert Bonner promised Tuesday.

He was answering questions by Cyril Sheford, Social Credit MLA for Omineca, who told the legislature "I don't intend to forget" that the report was promised last year.

Mr. Sheford said the gasoline price markup in north-central B.C. was more than 21 cents per gallon.

Wholesale gas at 32.5 cents a gallon was sold at 54 cents.

'FAIR BREAK'

"We must give motorists and at least the people living in these areas a fair break on gasoline," he said.

Mr. Sheford said something would have to be done about equalizing prices "and I think it might as well be right now."

Mr. Bonner replied that the inquiry had been carried out by the trade department. However, there had been some recent changes in price structure, and the department is now preparing some additions to its report.

HEAVIER PENALTIES for under-age drinkers caught in licensed premises should be imposed in B.C., Liberal member for Fernie Harry McKay asked in the legislature Tuesday. "There should be heavier penalties for youngsters actually caught in bars," the member said during the debate on Attorney-General Robert Bonner's salary. He said the police should also be asked to crack down on these people under 21 and on interdicts who frequent drinking places.

SLOWPOKES SHOULD BE 'CLIPPED'

The RCMP should be just as tough on slow drivers as it is on speeders, the legislature was told Tuesday.

Don Robinson (SC — Lil-loet) said the RCMP should "clip" slowpokes just as fast as it does fast drivers.

"That slow driver is just as dangerous — sometimes more dangerous," he said.

He said it was very seldom that slow drivers were picked up by the police.

Highways were built for high speed and it was "ridiculous" that some new cars were driven at only 20 miles an hour to hold up long strings of traffic.

China Attack Urged

TAIPEI (Reuters) — Two members of the Chinese Nationalist parliament here have urged their government to launch a "limited attack" on the Communist mainland at an early date.

'STAMP OUT THE OAS' REBELS TELL FRENCH

EVIAN, France (UPI) — Algerian rebel leaders demanded pledges from France today to launch all-out war against the outlawed European Secret Army Organization if it tries to sabotage a cease-fire agreement.

Algerian sources said this was the rebels' No. 1 demand as they met with the French here for the final phase of peace talks designed to end seven and a half years of Algerian bloodshed.

JOBS FOR 500 CONSTRUCTION MEN

Heavy increase in pulp and paper production at the Elk Falls mill at Campbell River will result from a $35 million expansion program announced today by Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd. Preliminary phases of the project will get under way immediately and peak construction, employing 500 to 600 men, is expected to start this year. Mill will employ an additional 120 men when expansion is completed.

Pulp Mill Project Completed by 1964

G. H. Gallaway
... "our biggest expansion"

A $35 million expansion program for the Elk Falls pulp and paper mill at Campbell River was announced today by Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd.

Unveiling the company's plans at a Campbell River Rotary Club luncheon, C.Z. Canada president G. H. Gallaway said:

"This is the biggest single expansion our company has undertaken. We are making an immediate start on preliminary phases of the project and completion is scheduled for 1964."

Highlights of the project:

- Facilities to produce initially 50,000 tons annually of sawdust pulp.
- Over-all increase in kraft pulp production from 320 to 1,000 tons daily.

- Tripling of bleach plant capacity from 200 to 600 tons daily.
- Installation of a 400-ton-per-day pulp dryer.
- Speedup of No. 2 newsprint machine to produce an additional 40,000 tons annually.

- A market in Holland for part of the increased pulp output.
- Annual permanent payroll to increase about $700,000 to a total of about $5.4 million. Employment to rise from 750 to 870.

From 500 to 600 workers will be employed in construction of the new facilities and the peak building period is expected to start late this year. When the expansion is completed in 1964, C.Z. Canada will have an investment of $95 million in the Elk Falls plant which was started in late 1950 and went into production in June, 1952.

Mr. Gallaway pointed out that Elk Falls would make a significant new advance in wood utilization with the first production in Canada of bleached kraft pulp from sawdust.

"Many years ago our company pioneered the use of chips from wood waste in the B.C. pulp and paper industry," he said. "The utilization of sawdust to manufacture pulp is another key development in getting maximum use of forest resources."

In addition to using sawdust from its own mills, the company plans to buy some

HUGE EAGLES ATTACK, DOWN PLANE

STON, Switzerland (UPI) — Two giant golden eagles attacked and forced a military airplane to make an emergency landing, a spokesman at nearby Chateau-neuf military airfield said today.

Lt. Walter Luethy, pilot of a military light single-engine Swiss-made C-36, reported the big birds struck his plane Tuesday.

According to the spokesman, the eagles swooped down and crashed against the wings and body of the slow-flying C-36 which was towing a target for anti-aircraft practice.

Luethy said the eagles barely missed his plastic bubble canopy. The pilot reported his plane was badly damaged and he made a forced landing.

Satellite Probes Mysteries of Sun

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A solar observatory satellite was fired into orbit by the United States today to learn how solar radiation influences the weather, and other conditions on earth and how great a threat it is to manned space flight.

The satellite, nicknamed OSO for orbiting solar observatory, was packed with instruments to

U.S., CANADA Tariff Cuts Agreed

OTTAWA (CP) — A Canada-United States agreement on mutual tariff cuts covering some $128,000,000 a year in products traded between the two countries was announced in the Commons today by Finance Minister Fleming.

The tariff cuts, covering a wide range of agricultural, fisheries, wood, metal and manufactured products, will take effect at a date not yet determined.

The Canada-United States agreement is part of a series of tariff-cutting agreements signed by the United States with other major trading countries following months of bargaining at meetings of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade at Geneva.

These agreements are with the six European Common Market nations, Britain and 13 other countries. Tariff cuts under these agreements will also apply to Canada and Mr. Fleming told the House that the effect "will be to open greatly enhanced prospects for Canadian exports."

He said that under the Canada-U.S. agreement — an interim one pending completion of all GATT negotiations at Geneva — the U.S. will reduce tariff rates on Canadian exports which averaged $65,000,000 annually in the three years 1958-60.

In return, Canada will reduce its tariff duties on imports from the U.S. which averaged about $63,000,000 a year in the same period.

BIND SOME ITEMS

Canada also has agreed to "bind" the existing tariff-free provisions for a number of farm implements and other items of production equipment — in other words an agreement not to increase those tariffs in future.

The series of agreements were reached in negotiations which began at Geneva last May.

Mr. Fleming's announcement indicated that further reductions in Canadian tariffs may be expected as a result of agreements with other countries.

'Worst Act Of Terrorism'

NELSON (CP) — Numerous industrial operations were shut down by intermittent power breaks today following the blasting of a 300-ton steel tower, severing a vital power line into the Creston Valley in the Kootenays' worst act of terrorism.

The blast, which came only a short time after six leaders of the Doukhobor sect had been arrested by RCMP, brought a demand from Mayor Joe Palyga of Trail that the federal government take steps to stop the "astounding deeds being performed against society by a minority sect."

Set off with three charges are what is believed to have been nitroglycerine, the blast was termed by police as the "worst and most costly act of terrorism yet in the Kootenays."

Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company operations at Trail, Kimberley and other places were affected, throwing

14 Freedomite Councillors Arrested

The arrests brought to 14 the total number of council members now under charges. And 83 charged or convicted in the RCMP crackdown on crime and terror in the Kootenays.

The tower supported three power cables arching two miles across Kootenay Lake to a similar tower or the west side. It crashed into the lake in a maze of tangled wires and insulators.

Mayor Palyga sent a telegram to Prime Minister Diefenbaker, saying:

"As in wartime you must consider the latest blasting of a vital power link an act of sabotage. I suggest the federal government must now take steps to eliminate the dastardly deeds being performed against society by a minority group."

"This latest blasting will directly affect our economy and also that of Canada. I urge your personal attention in this matter."

Early today power officials warned there will be a shortage of power and urged all sawmills and other industrial operation in the area to either curtail operations or shut down.

Industry Crippled For Months

KIMBERLEY, B.C. (CP) — Residents of East and West Kootenay communities today faced a grim future of power shortages as a result of the blasting of a huge power line tower on the shores of Kootenay Lake.

For them any prolonged shortage and power officials said it might take months to restore full power — could mean frozen pipes, unheated homes, closed schools and business shutdowns.

Any shutdown of the big Sullivan lead-zinc and silver mine here, which was reduced to 60 per cent of its capacity by the power shortage, could mean a loss of close to $500,000 a month in payrolls alone.

Kimberley's Mayor Cliff Swan called an emergency meeting of his council for later today. Said the mayor:

"We feel that we are facing a hopeless proposition. We as a city are now faced with what the West Kootenay has faced for years but on a larger scale. Their protests and appeals for help from the federal and provincial governments have fallen on deaf ears... but the problem is away beyond the municipal level and we don't know how to proceed."

He added he did not know what action the council could or would take.

The operations of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company used West Kootenay Power Company power normally supplied over the bombed line. But Kimberley used East Kootenay Power Company power and its facilities can supply only a fraction of the demand of the big C.M. & S. industrial complex.

As a result of the sudden demand from the mining company for even its essential services early today widespread overloading power failures occurred.

Power has now been restored to nearby Cranbrook but in this sprawling mining centre it was still out this morning.

V. W. Allan, chairman of the Creston village commission, said the outrage calls for the "most drastic action on the part of the government." He said the government should consider calling in the army to help the police force.

Strategy Mapped By RCMP Here

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said a top-level RCMP conference was under way at Victoria headquarters today on new action against Sons of Freedom terrorists.

"Within 48 hours I shall be able to provide additional measures should these be necessary," said Mr. Bonner.

The conference follows what he called "the outrageous incident" Tuesday night when bombs demolished a 356-foot power transmission tower at Kootenay Lake.

"The matter is being regarded in the severest light," said Mr. Bonner.

Already all available police in the area are working on the investigation and the RCMP "Doukhobor squad" was on the bombing scene within minutes of the blasts.

Mr. Bonner said the new bombing underscores the importance of plans to deal with terrorism he discussed in Ottawa last month with Justice Minister E. Davie Fulton.

He would not disclose the nature of the plans.

Mr. Bonner said the investigation at Kootenay Lake had already uncovered "some extremely interesting evidence."

"But my reports are too fragmentary for me to predict an early arrest."

He said he would not blame people in the blackout area being extremely angry — he was angry himself.

'Other Ways' to Work Out Columbia Pact, Says A-G

By FRANK RUTTER, Times Legislative Reporter

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Tuesday there are "other ways" of working out a Columbia River power agreement with the U.S. but B.C. wants to see the "effect" of the Canada-U.S. treaty carried out.

Gordon Dowding (NDP-CCF—Burnaby) was asking him in the legislature if B.C. intended to "go alone" in defiance of the federal government on the project.

Mr. Dowding said it would be "disgraceful" if B.C. ignored federal statutes such as the International Rivers Act.

Mr. Bonner replied it was correct that there were "other ways."

"It is not essential that it be handled by treaty," he said.

There were already a number of contracts between Canadian agencies and U.S. agencies for exchange of power.

But he added: "No one is talking about doing anything contrary to the laws of Canada."

Such laws included the International Rivers Act, which might be subject to "contest" and the Navigable Waters Act.

"It is entirely feasible, however, there are other ways, and proper ways, for agencies of Canada and the U.S. coming together, said Mr. Bonner. Presumably this referred to the possibility of B.C. and the U.S. making an independent Centennial Flashback...

MARCH 7

Word was received of the death in Boston, Mass., of Charles Otis Kimball, a British Columbia merchant well known and highly respected both here and in the sister colony. A partner in Cook and Kimball, Lytton, he was visiting his parents when stricken with diphtheria at the age of 34.

The sloop Lady Franklin (see March 5) was sold for $215, and the steamer Cortes has been taken off the Victoria-San Francisco service and sold to an English company for use on the Yangtze River, China.

The theatrical company, which returned only a few days ago after a successful winter season in New Westminster, has decided once more to move on. Theatricals announced for last night did not take place at the Lyceum because of an argument between the proprietor of the house and the actors. The argument was believed to be of a pecuniary nature.

Collieries Expands Operations

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Canadian Collieries Resources Ltd. is making its long-expected expansion move in the forest industry field, but the move, initially at least, does not include plans for a Vancouver Island pulp mill.

The company owns considerable property in the Union Bay area and has been studying the economics of a pulp mill there for months.

Leaving the pulp mill in abeyance for the time being—probably until the present pulp oversupply situation becomes more clear—Canadian Collieries has bid for Mount Baker Plywood Ltd. and a group of lumber companies controlled by B. I. Keeley of Vancouver.

The Keeley properties include Empire Mills Ltd. of Vancouver and a tree farm in the Squamish area.

Total price involved is expected to be in the neighborhood of $2.5 million for both Mount Baker and the Keeley properties.

Acquisition of the tree farm

Word from Calgary oil circles is that the Pan American Petroleum Ltd. Beaver River well, despite the cautious reports from the company, very likely does stand up as the biggest gas well in the world.

Pan Am, so far, has admitted only to a flow of 30 million cubic feet daily through a 1/2-inch choke, but the reports on pressures obtained has led the experts to say that the absolute open flow potential of the well would be higher than the 1.5 billion cubic feet obtained at the Berland-River-Alta, well which previously held the world's record.

In addition, the experts say that the reserves in the B.C. field, just a few miles south of the Yukon border, are indicated to be much higher than at Berland River. The estimate is from a half to three-quarters of a trillion cubic feet for each 1,000 acres on the structure.

Three Canadian groups are preparing plans for a second Arctic test well on Bathurst Island, west of Melville Island where the first well is still being drilled unsuccessfully.

The three ventures are headed by Lobitos Oilfields Canada Ltd. of Calgary, subsidiary of Lobitos Oilfields Ltd. of London; a group headed by Dominion Explorers Ltd. of Toronto, which also has an interest in the Melville well, and a group comprising Phoenix Canada Oil Co. Ltd. of Calgary.

Canada's largest oil field, the Pembina field south of Edmonton, will go into automatic production before the end of this year.

The automatic system, built at a cost of $4 million shared by 31 companies, will carry 30,000 barrels daily from 466 wells to pipeline testing, treating and measuring on the way. The self-regulating system gives alarm signals if dangerous operating conditions occur and can shut off production from any well in an emergency.

Hotel, Motel Centre Planned at Royal Oak

$500,000 Project Already Drawn Up

A plan for the development of a multi-million-dollar hotel and motel centre near Royal Oak has been drawn up by the Saanich planning department.

The plan calls for the establishment of a tourist and accommodation and recreation zone to be established on 75 acres of property adjacent to Beaver Lake.

The site is situated off the west side of the Patricia Bay Highway near Royal Oak Burial Park and extends to the south boundary of Beaver Lake Park.

Already an application to build a $500,000 hotel on a portion of the site has been submitted to Saanich.

ROOM TO EXPAND

Applicant J. C. Isherwood, 2450 Lansdowne, said the proposed development would be constructed to permit expansion when the need arose.

Saanich is awaiting information on the new route for the Patricia Bay Highway before taking action on the overall plan.

Town planner Tony Parr said the Capital Region Planning Board's plan listed the Royal Oak site as one of three locations suitable for hotel development.

RACKED BY COUNCIL

He also disclosed that prior to the completion of the board's overall plan for the Greater Victoria area, the 1959 council went on record as favoring a tourist centre at that location.

If the plan is approved, he said the site would be developed in depth to prevent ribbon development along the highway. There would also be access to Beaver Lake.

"We also recommend strict control of commercial signs in a development of this type," he said. "The idea is to have a well-planned, tourist-recreation centre which would tie in with the neighboring area."

Mr. Parr is optimistic that the site could become a major tourist centre.

"If properly developed, it would induce tourists to stay longer in Victoria as the hotels and motels would be situated near Beaver and Elk Lakes where boating, sailing and swimming are available," he said.

But we are opposed to a development which would allow the establishment of a string of hotels and stores along the Patricia Bay highway," he said. "The hotel centre as we see it should be developed in depth."

High-Rise Petitioners Win Support

The Chamber of Commerce university committee may enter the fray against Oak Bay council's plan to establish high rise apartment zones on the perimeter of the Gordon Head campus.

Committee chairman Capt. Ron Newell today said he will consult with the chamber's president to see if any representations should be made in support of a petition by 195 Oak Bay ratepayers against the high rise zones.

He pointed out the committee was active in helping the drive to obtain the 141-acre Hudson's Bay Company property for Victoria College's Gordon Head campus and it was concerned about any issue affecting use of the campus.

FORCED

Capt. Newell, who also is a member of the university development board, supported Mayor R. B. Wilson's remarks that the board was forced by Oak Bay council to reserve 40 acres on the fringe of the campus for high rise development.

"I was very pleased that the mayor, who was chairman of the development board at the time, made his comments."

"They represented the feeling of the board. I remember I was very disappointed at the time that we would lose the use of so much valuable land but we had no option."

"Oak Bay made us do it."

WILLING

Oak Bay Reeve George Murdoch earlier said that the board had appeared co-operative and willing to agree to the arrangement proposed by the municipal council in an attempt to compensate for the loss of potential tax revenue from the area had it been subdivided.

He said the estimated loss was $90,000 a year in addition to extra expenditures on water, sewer and road services that had been installed in anticipation of a subdivision.

Reeve Murdoch also said the college would benefit through lease revenue from the high rise apartments on its land.

Triplet Dies At Courtenay

Infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Parkin, Courtenay, one of triplet girls born three months ago, was found dead in her crib Tuesday.

Pneumonia was believed the cause of death.

The babies had been brought to Victoria shortly after birth for treatment of a blood defect, and had been kept for six weeks. They had been home about a month.

ASK The TIMES

Q—What singer has sold the most popular records, and who is close behind? B.W.

Thief Gets $700 From Flower Shop

Police Believe Door Lock Picked

A thief entered a florist shop in downtown Victoria sometime during the night and walked out with more than $700 in cash and cheques.

The theft was discovered at 8.30 a.m. today when staff arrived at Island Florists, 755 Yates Street, to open the premises for business.

City detectives said they were no signs of a forced entry into the store, which is on a street brightly lit at night.

When the staff arrived for work they found the front door unlocked.

"It is possible the lock was picked," detectives said. "It's terrible," owner Norma Fitzsimmons said.

The money was kept in a cash box in a drawer in the office.

B.C. to Drink Polio 'Shots' This Summer

British Columbians will receive new oral polio vaccine this summer instead of injections.

Health Minister Eric Martin said Tuesday that his department has already ordered all the oral vaccine it needs for free protection from polio.

"We put in our order—the amount that's needed," he said.

Mr. Martin said the vaccine would be shipped "as required and available."

The only reason why we haven't got oral vaccine before is that the manufacture has not been in sufficient supply to enable the provinces to use it," he said.

Mr. Martin said that U.S. tests of the new oral vaccine—taken in liquid form like medicine—had proved its effectiveness.

MADE IN CANADA

It has been approved by the federal health department, and now is being manufactured in Canada.

Up to now B.C. has used Salk Polio vaccine, injected in the arm.

Mr. Martin said that there had only been six cases of polio in B.C. last year, while the Salk vaccine was in use.

However, people would have a choice of oral or Salk vaccine this year.

There would be enough oral vaccine to fill B.C.'s needs provided the manufacturer comes through in time, Mr. Martin said.

COMMERCIAL FISHERMAN

John Ritchel, 1740 Lands End Road, Sidney, has been awarded a $3,000 Canada Council grant for research work in coloring metal sculpture.

With the money, the artist hopes to make metal sculpturing more appealing to the general public.

"Metal sculpturing can do a lot more for people if we can introduce color in this aspect of art," he said. "It's a bit cold without color."

Mr. Ritchel financed much of his formal training in art as a commercial fisherman. He and his mother, a widow, operated a fishing boat and went out to sea with the commercial fishing fleet.

Mr. Ritchel studied at the Vancouver Art School and later in New York under William Zorach, one of best known sculptors in the United States.

Stamps 'Parasite' On Healthy Trade

Increased sales through use of trading stamps could not possibly cover the disparity in higher operating costs, a leading drug store chain told the legislative committee on trading stamps today.

"The difference would have to be made up from increased prices," said Ralph Cunningham, president of Cunningham Drug Stores Ltd., which has 50 retail outlets plus wholesale, manufacturing and jobbing companies in B.C.

Committee members heard three pro-stamp briefs and one against trading stamps this morning.

In the case of Cunningham's, increased cost would be between three and four per cent of sales, or $240,000 to $320,000 a year. Normal promotional advertising costs the chain about $80,000 a year, Mr. Cunningham said.

He listed five main points in his brief to the committee:

1. Trading stamps if allowed to flourish will become a parasite living off what should be normal, healthy trade.

2. If the existing loophole in trading stamp legislation is not closed, the province will be forced to throw the field wide open by rescinding the act.

Assiniboine, Margaree, Ottawa return April 23.

St. Therese, Beacon Hill return Thursday at 5 p.m.

Fortune, James Bay, Cowichan, Miramichi return March 23.

Grise returns Thursday 8.30 a.m.

Harry Stoddart, 64, 1060 Queens, is in satisfactory condition in Veterans' Hospital today following a two-car collision at Obed and Orilla in Saanich Tuesday afternoon.

Police said Mr. Stoddart's car collided with one driven by Carl Henry, 213 Burnside West, and went on to hit a telephone pole.

He was taken to St. Joseph's with leg and side injuries and later transferred to Veterans' Hospital. His car was demolished.

Victoria's aldermen will get the news in about two weeks—expenditure estimates for 1962.

A high level of spending will be needed to carry out various programs proposed by the City Hall for the coming year, ranging from urban renewal to centennial celebrations.

City council committees are expected to begin tussling with the estimates March 19 to see how much they can chop before the full budget is presented for final consideration.

Mild, moist weather, with fog patches tonight and Thursday, and the chance of rain by Thursday night or Friday morning, were predicted today by weatherman William Mackie.

"Thursday will be a sunny day that's trying to be cloudy, or a cloudy day trying to be sunny," he said.

The temperature range overnight was from 28 to 37 degrees, he said, and the prediction for tonight is for 28 to 35 degrees. Maximum Thursday will be 50 degrees, and winds will be light.

NEW 'HEARING AID' FOR SUB-HUNTERS

sub-skippers have been using. The equipment necessitated cutting away part of transom, as shown by contrast with stern of HMCS Saguenay, right. St. Laurent is now on trials, and result will govern development of VDS program throughout rest of the RCN's modern destroyer fleet. (Halkett Photo.)

MONTE ROBERTS

The Canadian National Railway has come up with an idea which is apt to send the likes of me into a nostalgic orbit.

The CNR (long may it survive its deficit) is planning rail excursions next summer for those who savor the pure joy of riding behind a coal-eating, steam-breathing, whistle-roaring locomotive as ever was.

And, I trust, these same excursions will be open to those unfortunate souls who have never been hauled on the long iron by a smoke-belching monster which made every mile between whistle-stop and whistle-stop an adventure in itself.

There was something about the steam locomotive, of the coal-firing era, setting it far apart from more prosaic means of transportation—including the horse and buggy and the rocket and space capsule.

In the engine cab (I feel so sorry for anyone who has never ridden the cab of a coal-fired steamer) there was the inferno of sound—wheels clanking over switch points, the fireman's shovel clinking on the pedal-operated firebox door, the wind shrieking in a back-draft between tender and cab. And there was the inferno of motion—rock, recover, rock again as flanges bit into the rails to keep the monster on the road.

Most of all, the inferno of color, especially at night—the signals showing green, the occasional lights of villages and towns moving backward in a sustained flash—the white-hot light as the fire-box flicked open for a brief moment as the fireman yanked out a blinker with his reversed shovel.

Meanwhile, back in the wooden coaches, those elaborate vehicles developed by George Pullman, the fortunate passengers had the benefit of just enough coal-ash to counteract the smell of oranges and stale cigar smoke.

The mail car, the express car, the baggage car, the tourist class cars, the diner, and the Pullmans, troicked along obediently behind the wheeled fire-breather up ahead, each providing its own squeak, creak, rattle, roar, and feed-back, feed-back in ever-changing cadence to add to the glamorous whole.

The CNR has come up with an idea which has sent me into a nostalgic orbit.

Bless them for planning excursions for those who like to ride behind a real old coal burner.

Only trouble is, the excursions are from Montreal. And how do I get there? In an antiseptic, aluminum, diesel-hauled, all-compartment thing roughly referred to as a train?

I guess I'll just stay home and dream.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Members of the Thetis Park town will hold a work "bee" on Saturday. Assembly will be at the Thetis Lake Concession parking lot at 2 p.m.

Bill Cushing will speak on "An Engineering Approach to the Selection of Protective Coatings," Tuesday, at 8.20 p.m., to the Victoria Branch, American Society for Metals. The social hour will commence at 7.30 p.m.

Mayor R. B. Wilson will sign a proclamation declaring next week as DeMolay Week in honor of the international boys' organization celebrating its 43rd anniversary. Victoria chapter of the Order of DeMolay has about 80 members.

The annual meeting of the Royal Jubilee Hospital Society will be held next week in the Nurses' Residence lounge.

Directors' reports and election of four members to the board are scheduled for the meeting, Wednesday, at 8 p.m.

Construction contract for the 19-store Esquimalt Plaza on Esquimalt Road has been awarded to a Vancouver firm, Frank B. Jones Contracting Ltd., will build the shopping centre on property adjacent to the municipality's Sports Centre.

A spokesman for the municipality said the construction company will hire local workers to build the plaza, bringing over only an engineer and a foreman.

The plaza will feature a Safeway supermarket.

Estimated cost of the project is $302,500, not including specialized store fronts for the various unit occupants.

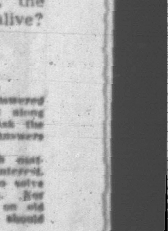

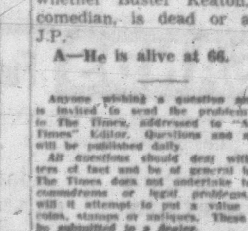

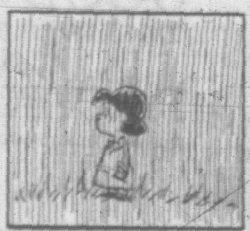

Completion of the plaza is scheduled for early in June.

SHE FLIPPED HOME THE WINNER

Mrs. E. A. Jarman flipped a pancake with speed and precision while running a 50-yard course at Ganges Tuesday—Shrove Tuesday—to win the annual pancake classic sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion branch there.

Second and third in the ladies' open event were Mrs. R. C. Hill and Mrs. F. W. Kirkham.

Other winners were Mrs. Bishop Wilson, grandmothers; Leon duPlessis, men's open; David Pringle, children under 10; Kelly Ryland, children over 10.

$35 MILLION EXPANSION FOR ISLAND PULP MILL

HYDRO TOWER

Power Emergency In Kootenays After Blast

Reward of $10,000 for each individual involved was offered by the provincial government today for evidence or information leading to conviction of terrorists involved in the dynamiting of a power transmission tower in the West Kootenay.

Attorney-General Bonner announced the reward offer in the legislature today.

He said it has been determined that more than one person was involved in the latest incident in the land of Freedomite Doukhobors.

NELSON (CP)—Numerous industrial operations were shut down by intermittent power breaks today following the blasting of a 300-ton steel tower, severing a vital power line into the Creston Valley in the Kootenay's worst act of terrorism.

The blast, which came only a short time after six leaders of the radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect had been arrested by RCMP, brought a demand from Mayor Joe Palyga said it was a "major act of in-fidelity that the federal government take steps to stop the 'dastardly deeds being performed against society by a minority sect.'"

Set off with three charges of what is believed to have been nitroglycerine, the blast was termed by police as the "worst and most costly act of terrorism yet in the Kootenays."

Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company operations at Trail, Kimberly and other places were affected, throwing more than 1,000 CMS employees and an unknown number of workers at other operations out of work. Officials said it was a "major act of industrial sabotage." It might be months before the power line could be restored.

The blast followed a new crackdown by RCMP on the Sons of Freedom, long blamed for burnings and bombings throughout the Kootenays.

Six top-ranking elders of the Freedomites' ruling fraternal council were arrested. They were charged with wilfully attempting to obstruct the course of justice, but no further particulars of the charges were given immediately by police.

14 Freedomite Councillors Arrested

The arrests brought to 14 the total number of council members now under charges, and 89 charged or convicted in the RCMP crackdown on crime and terror in the Kootenays.

The tower supported three power cables arching two miles across Kootenay Lake to a similar tower on the west side. It crashed into the lake in a maze of tangled wires and insulators. Mayor Palyga sent a telegram to Prime Minister Diefenbaker, saying:

"As in wartime you must consider the latest blasting of a vital power link an act of sabotage. I suggest the federal government must now take steps to eliminate the dastardly deeds being performed against society by a minority group."

This latest blasting will directly affect our economy and also that of Canada. I urge your personal attention in this matter."

Early today power officials warned there will be a shortage of power and urged all sawmills and other industrial operation in the area to either curtail operations or shut down.

Strategy Mapped By RCMP Here

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said a top-level RCMP conference was under way at Victoria headquarters today on new action against Sons of Freedom terrorists.

"Within 48 hours I shall be able to provide additional measures should these be necessary," said Mr. Bonner. The conference follows what he called "the outrageous incident" Tuesday night when bombs demolished a 356-foot power transmission tower at Kootenay Lake.

"The matter is being regarded in the severest light," said Mr. Bonner.

Already all available police in the area are working on the investigation and the RCMP "Doukhobor" squad was on the bombing scene within minutes of the blasts.

Mr. Bonner said the new bombing underscores the importance of plans to deal with terrorism he discussed in Ottawa last month with Justice Minister E. Davie-Fulton.

He would not disclose the nature of the plans.

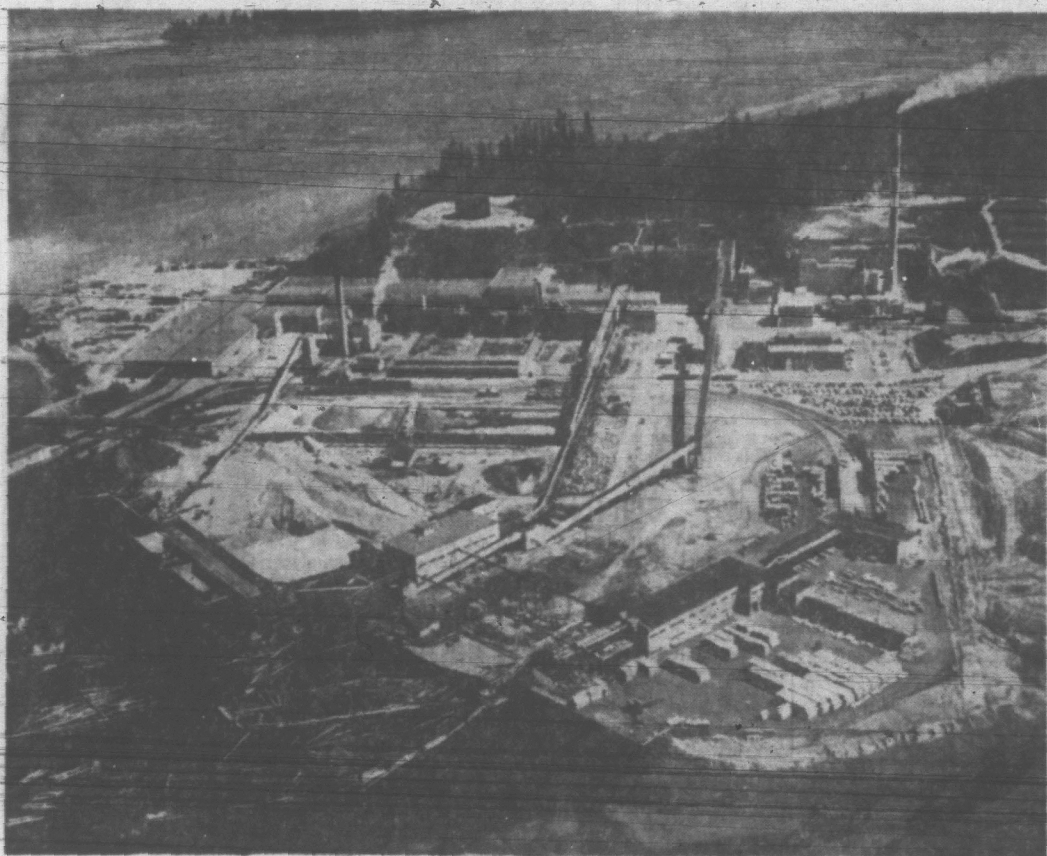

Mr. Bonner said the investigation at Kootenay Lake had already uncovered "some extremely interesting evidence."

"But my reports are too fragmentary for me to predict an early arrest."

He said he would not blame people in the blackout area being extremely angry—he was angry himself.

But he warned that vigilante action—which has been suggested by some local residents—could make it harder for police to maintain law and order.

Campbell River Project by CZ

A $35 million expansion program for the Elk Falls pulp and paper mill at Campbell River was announced today by Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd.

Unveiling the company's plans at a Campbell River Rotary Club luncheon, CZ Canada president G. H. Galloway said:

"This is the biggest single expansion our company has undertaken. We are making an immediate start on preliminary phases of the project and completion is scheduled for 1964."

Highlights of the project:

- Facilities to produce initially 50,000 tons annually of sawdust pulp.
- Over-all increase in kraft pulp production from 520 to 1,000 tons daily.
- Tripling of bleach plant capacity from 200 to 600 tons daily.
- Installation of a 400-ton-per-day pulp dryer.
- Speedup of No. 2 newsprint machine to produce an additional 40,000 tons annually.
- A market in Holland for part of the increased pulp output.
- Annual permanent payroll to increase about $700,000 to a total of about $5.4 million. Employment to rise from 750 to 870.

From 500 to 600 workers will be employed in construction of the new facilities and the peak building period is expected to start late this year. When the expansion is completed in 1964, CZ Canada will have an investment of $85 million in the Elk Falls plant which was started in late 1950 and went into production in June, 1952.

Mr. Galloway pointed out that Elk Falls would make a significant new advance in wood utilization with the first production in Canada of bleached kraft pulp from sawdust.

"Many years ago our company pioneered the use of chips from wood waste in the B.C. pulp and paper industry," he said. "The utilization of sawdust to manufacture pulp is another key development in getting maximum use of forest resources."

In addition to using sawdust from its own mills, the company plans to buy some

Storm Lashes U.K.

PENANCE, Eng. (Reuters)—Families were evacuated from homes in the southwestern towns of Penance and Newlyn early today after a record high tide, lashed by stiff winds, broke through a sea wall and flooded houses, streets and basements.

The series of agreements were reached in negotiations which began at Geneva last May. Mr. Fleming's announcement indicated that further reductions in Canadian tariffs may be expected as a result of agreements with other countries.

Such laws included the International Rivers Act which might be subject to "contest" and the Navigable Waters Act. "It is entirely feasible, however, there are other ways, and proper ways, for agencies of Canada and the U.S. coming together," said Mr. Bonner. Presumably this referred to the possibility of B.C. and the U.S. making an independent

Heavy increase in pulp and paper production at the Elk Falls mill at Campbell River will result from a $35 million expansion program announced today by Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd. Preliminary phases of the project will get under way immediately and peak construction, employing 500 to 600 men, is expected to start this year. Mill will employ an additional 120 men when expansion is completed.

FINAL BULLETINS

B.C. Curlers in Fourth Victory

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—British Columbia beat Quebec 9-5 in the fifth round of the Canadian curling championship for its fourth victory in five games today. It was Quebec's third loss.

In other games Manitoba beat Newfoundland 10-5 and Ontario clobbered New Brunswick 13-3.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today the federal government will co-operate fully with British Columbia in controlling the radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect.

Satellite Probes Mysteries of Sun

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A solar observatory satellite was fired into orbit by the United States today to learn how solar radiation influences the weather and other conditions on earth and how great a threat it is to manned-space flight.

The satellite, nicknamed OSO for orbiting solar observatory, was packed with instruments to give scientists their first clear look at basic mysteries of the sun.

The 458-pound OSO payload roared away from this spaceport at 11:06 a.m. aboard a Thor-Delta rocket. All three stages ignited as planned and propelled the craft into orbit about 350 miles above the earth at 17,000 miles an hour.

Less than an hour later, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported that radio signals received by ground stations indicated the satellite was in orbit.

The new space traveller is the first of several such observatories planned to unravel puzzles Agency officials hope to launch at least one a year to chart a full 11-year sunspot cycle.

Sunspots are violent eruptions on the face of the sun ranging in area from 100 miles to more than 150,000 miles in diameter.

According to the spokesman, the eagles swooped down and crashed against the wings and body of the slow-flying C-36 which was towing a target for anti-aircraft practice.

Luethy said the eagles barely missed his plastic bubble canopy. The pilot reported his plane was badly damaged and he made a forced landing.

Gordon Dowding (NDP-CCF) Burnaby was asking him in the legislature if B.C. intended to "go alone" in defiance of the federal government on the project. Mr. Dowding said it would be "disgraceful" if B.C. ignored federal statutes such as the International Rivers Act. Mr. Bonner replied it was correct that there were "other ways."

But, he added: "No one is
